Song For Nero:

A Song For Nero Thomas C. Holt, 2009-10-01 History tells us that in 69AD at the ripe old age of 32 and on hearing that General Glaba's forces were closing in Nero fled his palace in Rome. He stabbed himself in the throat with a pen and was trampled to death by horses in a muddy ditch. His last words were 'What an artist dies with me'. But there is another possibility: Nero did not die in that ditch but somebody who looked very much like him did. This gives Nero the opportunity to start a new life in pursuit of his first love: music. But there's a problem: Nero is being pursued by two people who have reason to suspect he is still alive: one wants him dead, the other is a passionate fan of his dreadful music and wants his genius recognised. Tom Holt is an innovative, challenging and wonderfully entertaining writer of historical fiction. NERO is essential reading for all fans of Tom Holt and historical fiction.

Song for Nero B Pbp Thomas Holt, 2004-01 Miles' Song Alice McGill, 2002 It is 1851. Miles is a house slave on the Tillery Plantation but when he is caught looking at an open book he is sent to the breaking ground where he learns what it really means to be a slave. 12-year-old Miles is allowed to work in the great house on the Tillery Plantation where he is training to be a house servant rather than labor in the fields. But after he is caught looking at an open book while dusting the library, Miles is banished from the mansion and sent to the breaking ground. There he learns what it truly means to feel like a slave. But it is also at the breaking ground that he meets Elijah, an older slave who teaches Miles to read and tells him of the land of freedom up north. Armed with his new knowledge, Miles tells himself that he does not feel like a slave and he no longer believes working in the great house is a privilege.

Serpent Song Toni Grant, 2018-11-01 When organised crime detective Francesca Salucci starts investigating the death of a biker, she comes across shady drug deals and internal power struggles within Australia's various crime gangs. The trail she uncovers leads her from Sydney to Rome all the way to a small town in the Italian Riviera. There reunited with a past lover, Francesca has no choice but to confront her past and her own origins. In her search for the connections between the Sicilian mafia, Chinese Triads and Australian bike gangs, she will find herself caught between her personal history and her desire for justice. With her life in danger, Francesca will find refuge in the outback where she will work to come to terms with her biggest battle yet: her past. An action-packed thriller that tells a story of love, greed, betrayal and moral conflict.

The Swan Song Justin Stanfill, 2010-11-28 He has been them all: Hero, Son, Friend, Husband, Father, Lover, Soldier, Officer, Enemy, Fighter, Prisoner, Lost, Outlaw. He has felt them all: Love, Hate, Friendship, Torture, Loss, Joy, Regret, War, Peace. An old man at the end of his life is reminded of the events and the people that led him through war and through peace. Through torture and redemption, through the stages of his youth, the life and trials that have gotten him to where he stands now are relived. The tunes and melodies of his life are laid out before him as they join together to play his final song: The Swan Song.

Monthly musical record ,1877      The Monthly Musical Record ,1877      Song Without Words Sof'i[a] Andreevna Tolstai[a], Leah Bendavid-Val, 2007 In a first ever publishing event the remarkable photography and writings of Countess Sophia Tolstoy reveal the unfolding of her life with her famous husband and evocatively portray a glittering world that soon would fade away 120 photographs      Meditations from the Classics David R. Denny, 2023-12-08 There s a delightful melody in the ancient voices as they travel through time s narrow door I hear them best on my front porch rocker that faces an ocean marsh There beneath curious stars the orchestration emerges mingling with moonlight tides Sometimes Socrates sings the high notes while Thucydides pulls the bass line Aristophanes rallies his chorus and Caesar charges over a hilltop near the dark Teutoburg Forest There are times when I struggle with the faint lyrics but with patience the scenes begin to breathe again Hurry It s midnight and the curtain is opening The actors twirl their swords and fluff their flowing robes Sophocles is quieting the theater requesting our attention Oedipus now an aged actor leans upon his daughter Antigone His face glowers from twenty years of wandering beneath ghastly burdens and past failures Slowly they climb a rocky path that leads to the edge of a forest His words still resonate for us today with a vibrant relevance as do all thirty three ancient authors in Meditations from the Classics      While Rome Burned Virginia M. Closs, 2020-05-06 While Rome Burned attends to the intersection of fire city and emperor in ancient Rome tracing the critical role that urban conflagration played as both reality and metaphor in the politics and literature of the early imperial period Urban fires presented a consistent problem for emperors from Augustus to Hadrian especially given the expectation that the princeps be both a protector and provider for Rome s population The problem manifested itself differently for each leader and each sought to address it in distinctive ways This history can be traced most precisely in Roman literature as authors addressed successive moments of political crisis through dialectical engagement with prior incendiary catastrophes in Rome s historical past and cultural repertoire Working in the increasingly repressive environment of the early principate Roman authors frequently employed figured speech and mythopoetic narratives to address politically risky topics In response to shifting political and social realities the literature of the early imperial period reimagines and reanimates not just historical fires but also archetypal and mythic representations of conflagration Throughout the author engages critically with the growing subfield of disaster studies as well as with theoretical approaches to language allusion and cultural memory      The Last Days of Jerusalem: a Song of Zion Stephen Watson Fullom, 1871      The Book of Nero 6 Ultra Edition Wally Wang, 2004 A straightforward guide to using Nero Ultra 6 to burn music and data CDs and to copy DVDs describes the various features of the popular CD and DVD burning software and offers a task oriented step by step approach that takes users through the process of using Nero for various tasks Original Beginner      From Song to Book Sylvia Huot, 2019-05-15 As the visual representation of an essentially oral text Sylvia Huot points out the medieval illuminated manuscript has a theatrical performative quality She perceives the tension between implied oral performance and real visual artifact as a fundamental aspect of thirteenth and fourteenth century poetics In this generously illustrated volume Huot examines manuscript texts both from the performance oriented lyric tradition of chanson courtoise or courtly love lyric and from the self consciously literary tradition of Old French narrative poetry She demonstrates that the evolution of the lyrical romance and dit narrative poems which incorporate thematic and rhetorical elements of the lyric was responsible for a progressive redefinition of lyric poetry as a written medium and the emergence of an explicitly written literary tradition uniting lyric and narrative poetics Huot first investigates the nature of the vernacular book in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries analyzing organization page layout rubrication and illumination in a series of manuscripts She then describes the relationship between poetics and manuscript format in specific texts including works by widely read medieval authors such as Guillaume de Lorris Jean de Meun and Guillaume de Machaut as well as by lesser known writers including Nicole de Margival and Watriquet de Couvin Huot focuses on the writers characteristic modifications of lyric poetics their use of writing and performance as theme their treatment of the poet as singer or writer and of the lady as implied reader or listener and the ways in which these features of the text were elaborated by scribes and illuminators Her readings reveal how medieval poets and book makers conceived their common project and how they distinguished their respective roles

The Song of the Flea Gerald Kersh, 2013-11-21 With The Song Of The Flea 1948 Gerald Kersh revisited the demi monde of his famous Night And The City but this novel concerns a writer striving doggedly to make his living A remarkable novel with this book Mr Kersh has taken a big step forward Sunday Times Kersh has a remarkable talent he is one of the comparatively few living novelists in this country who write with energy and originality and whose ideas are not drawn from a residuum of novels that have been written before The Song of the Flea is the story of John Pym a young man trying to earn his living as a writer Mr Kersh draws on his picturesque and convincing knowledge of human vileness in a manner which is both entertaining and instructive Times Literary Supplement

Urban Disasters and the Roman Imagination Virginia M. Closs, Elizabeth Keitel, 2020-09-21 This book affords new perspectives on urban disasters in the ancient Roman context attending not just to the material and historical realities of such events but also to the imaginary and literary possibilities offered by urban disaster as a figure of thought Existential threats to the ancient city took many forms including military invasions natural disasters public health crises and gradual systemic collapses brought on by political or economic factors In Roman cities the memory of such events left lasting imprints on the city in psychological as well as in material terms Individual chapters explore historical disasters and their commemoration but others also consider of the effect of anticipated and imagined catastrophes They analyze the destruction of cities both as a threat to be forestalled and as a potentially regenerative agent of change and the ways in which destroyed cities are revisited and in a sense rebuilt in literary and social memory The contributors to this volume seek to explore the Roman conception of disaster in terms that are not exclusively literary or historical Instead they explore the connections between and among various elements in the assemblage of experiences texts and traditions touching upon the theme of urban disasters in the Roman world
