Mayr, 2003-12-19 With unique and powerful data from within a big city prison this book clarifies the role that conversational analysis can have within a Critical Discourse Analysis perspective In a detailed linguistic analysis of the language use of prison officers and prisoners involved in a prison based course the author charts the shifting power relations of control and resistance and situates the findings in a broader sociological analysis of the prison as an institution The study will interest sociolinguists discourse analysts and researchers in communication studies criminology and counselling Interpreting As Interaction Cecilia Wadensjö, 2014-06-06 Interpreting in Interaction provides an account of interpreter mediated communication exploring the responsibilities of the interpreter and the expectations of both the interpreter and of other participants involved in the interaction The book examines ways of understanding the distribution of responsibility of content and the progression of talk in interpreter mediated institutional face to face encounters in the community interpreting context Bringing attention to discursive and social practices prominent in modern society but largely unexplored in the existing literature the book describes and explains real life interpreter mediated conversations as documented in various public institutions such as hospitals and police stations The data show that the interpreter's prescribed role as a non participating non person does not and cannot always hold true The book convincingly argues that this in one sense exceptional form of communication can be used as a magnifying glass in the grounded study of face to face institutional interaction more generally Cecilia Wadensj explains and applies a Bakhtinian dialogic theory of language and mind and offers an alternative understanding of the interpreter's task as one consisting of translating and co-ordinating and of the interpreter as an engaged actor solving problems of translatability and problems of mutual understanding in situated social interactions Teachers and students of translation and interpretation studies including sign language interpreting applied linguistics and sociolinguistics will welcome this text Students and professionals within law medicine and education will also find the study useful to help them understand the role of the interpreter within these frameworks

The Senses of Scripture Yael Avrahami, 2012-06-15 The Senses of Scripture reveals the essence of biblical epistemology the ways in which ancient Israelites thought about and used their sensorium The theoretical introduction demonstrates that scholars need to liberate themselves from the Western bias that holds a pentasensory paradigm and prioritises the sense of sight The discussion of the biblical material demonstrates that biblical scholars should follow a similar path Through examination of associative and contextual patterns the author reaches a septasensory model including sight hearing speech kinaesthesia touch taste and smell It is further demonstrated that the senses according to the HB are a divinely created physical experience which symbolised human ability to act in a sovereign manner in the world Despite the lack of a biblical Hebrew term sense it seems that at times the merism sight and hearing serves that matter Finally the book discusses the longstanding dispute regarding the primacy of sight vs hearing and claims that although there is no strict sensory hierarchy evident in the text sight holds a central space in biblical epistemology

Mediated Discourse as Social

Interaction Ron Scollon, 2014-06-11 Mediated Discourse as Social Interaction makes an explicit link between media studies and social interactionist discursive research where previously the two fields of study have been treated as separate disciplines This text presents an integrated theory illustrated by ample concrete examples bringing together the latest research in these two fields It offers a critique to the sender receiver model implicit in media studies and argues for an analysis of media discourse as social interaction on the one hand among journalists and newsmakers as a community of practice and among readers and viewers as a spectating community of practice on the other The book also argues for a coherent and interdiscursive methodology for the ethnographic study of the role of the news media in the social construction of identity and is based on a considerable body of ethnographic and textual analysis of both print and television news media The theory of mediated discourse presented in this volume will be of great interest to advanced undergraduates and postgraduates studying media studies sociology of language discourse analysis interactional sociolinguistics ethnography of communication and applied linguistics It will also be welcomed by scholars and professionals involved in research in these areas

The Power of Tests Elana (Professor Of Language Education Shohamy, 2020-11-25 Language in Social Life is a major series which highlights the importance of language to an understanding of issues of social and professional concern It will be of practical relevance to all those wanting to understand how the ways we communicate both influence and are influenced by the structures and forces of contemporary social institutions In all modern societies individuals are subject to tests whether to enter educational programs to pass from one level to the next or to grant certificates to practice Yet tests are powerful tools which are often introduced in undemocratic and unethical ways as disciplinary tools for carrying out various policy agendas Tests can be detrimental to people's lives as they are capable of affecting and defining the knowledge and behaviour of those who are being tested The Power of Tests applies a critical perspective of language tests by examining their uses and consequences in education and society and by viewing tests not as isolated events but rather as embedded in social educational and political contexts The book is divided into four parts the first part establishes the power of tests through echoing the voices of test takers describing the features of the power of tests and the temptations that tests offer to bureaucrats who use them for power and control The second part reports on studies that provide empirical evidence about intentions and effects of a number of large scale language tests The third part interprets the results by examining their consequences on education and society arriving at a model of tests use The final section of the book offers strategies for controlling and minimising the misuses of tests by introducing the notion of Critical Language Testing which calls for the examination of the consequences and misuses of tests monitoring of power and pointing to their unethical uses It also provides a comprehensive discussion of the responsibilities of language testers including a new Code of Ethics as well as strategies for guarding and protecting the rights of test takers

Legal-Lay Communication Chris Heffer, Frances Rock, John Conley, 2013-07-16 This volume responds to a growing interest in the language of legal settings by situating the study of language and law within contemporary theoretical debates in discourse studies linguistic anthropology and sociolinguistics The chapters in the collection explore many of the common occasions when those acting on behalf of the legal system such as the police lawyers and judges interact with those coming into contact with the legal system such as suspects and witnesses However the chapters do this work through the conceptual lens of textual travel or the way that texts move across space and time and are transformed along the way Collectively notions of textual travel shed new light on the ways in which texts can influence and are influenced by social and legal life With contributions from leading experts in language and law Legal Lay Communication explores such textual travel themes as the mediating role of technologies in the investigatory stages of the legal process the centrality of intertextuality in the legal construction of cases in court the transformative effects of recontextualization in processes of judicial decision making and the way that processes of textual travel disturb the apparent permanence of legal categorization The book challenges both the notion of legal text as a static repository of meaning and the very idea of legal lay or lay legal communication
