Transnational Identities on Okinawa's Military Bases Johanna O. Zulueta, 2019-09-27 This book considers the role of civilian workers on U S bases in Okinawa Japan and how transnational movements within East Asia during the Occupation period brought foreign workers mostly from the Philippines to work on these bases Decades later in a seeming reproduction of base labour returnees of both Okinawan and Philippine heritage began occupying jobs on base as United States of Japan USFJ employees The book investigates the role that ethnicity nationality and capital play in the lives of these base employees and at the same time examines how Japanese and Okinawan identities are formed and challenged It offers a valuable resource for those interested in Japan and Okinawa U S military basing migration and mixed ethnicities America, Okinawa, and Japan Frederick L. Shiels, 1980 John F. Kennedy and the New Pacific Community, 1961-63 Timothy P. Maga, 2011-01-01 Charismatic and committed John F Kennedy remains one of the most revered and most disliked of US Presidents Dedicated to changing the look of the American Presidency Kennedy was also pledged to changing the nature of

US foreign policy making Victory in the Cold War was possible he said and the greatest challenge to that victory was in the Asian Pacific region Success there would signal the end of the communist versus capitalist confrontation America can do it he vowed This book describes the Kennedy administration s desperate efforts to achieve the impossible dream an American Cold War victory throughout Asia and the Pacific The Subversive Activities Prevention Law of Japan Cecil H. Uyehara, 2010

The Subversive Activities Prevention Law SAPL was the last major controversial law to be drafted at the end of the Allied Occupation of Japan 1945 1952 which was managed and controlled by General Headquarters GHQ under U S General MacArthur and was enacted into law after Japan had regained its formal independence in 1952 Soon after the Occupation began prewar Japanese internal security laws were ordered abolished by the Occupation Now that Japan would be re gaining its independence in 1952 there was urgency to creating a new integrated national internal security law to fill the vacuum created by the Occupation 1945 1952 The Subversive Activities Prevention Law was to be the centerpiece for maintaining internal security in the new independent Japan It turned out to be an extremely controversial law that was vociferously opposed by the political opposition in and out of the Diet in light of the prewar history surrounding how such internal security laws were implemented by the state security apparatus The demonstrations in 1951 52 against the proposed law organized by the labor unions were the largest loudest and most determined since the end of the war This publication is the first analysis in English on how this law was drafted and debated supported and opposed using the 20 drafts of the law and the subsequent deliberations concerning the proposed law in the Houses of Representatives and Councillors A short epilogue since over 50 years have elapsed since the law was initially enacted in 1952 analyzes the implementation of the law during these years The Subversive Activities Prevention Law of Japan Its Creation 1951 1952 will be of particular interest to those studying the Allied Occupation of Japan the Japanese political and legislative process and its internal security laws
