ABSTRACT

As social stratification has deepened in contemporary Chinese society, educational capital and academic performance in secondary education have differentiated according to students' socio-economic status. Most of the existing studies on the relationship between family background and children's academic achievement focus on the impact of a student's family background on the final level of education achieved, but education acquisition is a continuous process. Without an analysis of the educational process, it is difficult to understand the process mechanism by which family background affects children's educational opportunity. By using data from the China Education Panel Survey (CEPS), this paper studies the paths and effects of students' socio-economic status on their academic performance. Through modelling latent variables (socio-economic status, academic performance) with fourteen observed variables in a sample size of approximately 7,000 junior high school students around China, this study found that: first, families use their socio-economic resources to provide children with different educational resources and thus influence their academic performance; second, through parents' educational participation and behavioural support, families develop children's learning attitudes and habits, thus influencing their academic achievements. The findings of this paper provide a possible basis for reducing class differences in children's academic achievements and promoting educational equity.

1. INTRODUCTION

Education is fundamental for the development of national quality, and education in childhood is the basis for the cultivation of a country's labour force. The acquisition of education in childhood not only affects individual's own sense of achievement and happiness, but also affects the quality and innovation of a country's labour force at the national level. Education thus affects nation's development ability [1]. In China, as compulsory education has become more widespread and schools have expanded in size, the average education level of residents has been significantly improved. Nevertheless, due to the scarcity of educational resources and their uneven allocation, there is still a great deal of room to improve educational inequality[2]. For this reason, the state council approved the "Outline of the National Medium- and Long-Term Programme for Education Reform and Development" in 2010 and set "promoting fairness in education and ensure equitable education for the benefit of all" as one of the key strategic goals of national education development.

On the one hand, the fairness of education is rooted in the institutional arrangement, which in turn cushions or even restrains the influence of families' socio-economic status. On the other hand, fair access to education relies on the opportunity and ability to participate in education. Either way, the ultimate outcome is the academic performance of the child within the peer group. In this way, the relationship between family background and access to education has become one of the most important indicators to measure the fairness of education. Research shows that since China's reform and opening up, the role of families' socio-economic status in individual education acquisition has been on the rise and, moreover, its influence has not weakened as school enrolment has expanded[3][4][5][6]. Most of the existing studies on the relationship between family background and children's

The Future of Children: Spring 2005 Cecilia Rouse,Jeanne Brooks-Gunn,Sara S. McLanahan,2010-12-01 The Future of Children is a new semiannual publication that provies research and analysis to promote effective policies and programs for children This first issue focuses on School Readiness Closing Racial and Ethnic Gaps For more than 30 years researchers have seen white children outperform black and other minority children in tests of reading and math skills Though there is evidence that the gap has narrowed somewhat the very persistence of this racial and ethnic gap remains a source considerable concern for academics policy professionals and parents The ethnic and racial gaps appear to reach back to the preschool years When children reach the school door minority children exhibit lower school readiness skills at least those measured by standardized tests than their white counterparts From that point forward the achievement gap only widens If policy professionals are to address this disparity in academic achievement and the consequent disparity in later opportunity the racial and ethnic gap must be examined in the very earliest years before students begin school with embedded inequalities This volume critically summarizes the research on the origin and trajectory of the racial and ethnic gap in the early years from several theoretical perspectives In particular research is analyzed to determine when these differences start to emerge in what areas they appear what factors contribute to their development by the time children enter grade school and what are the long term effects Contents Introducing the Issue of Test Score Ethnic and Racial Disparities Jeanne Brooks Gunn Sara McLanahan and Cecilia Elena Rouse Identifying Racial and Ethnic Differences in School Readiness Donald Rock and Jack Stenner Test Score Gaps The Contribution of Family and Neighborhood Characteristics Greg Duncan and Katherine Magnuson Genetic Differences and School Readiness William T Dickens Neuroscience Perspectives on Disparities in School Readiness Kim Noble B J Casey and Nim Tottenham Low Birth Weight and School Readiness Nancy Reichman The Impact of Health on School Readiness Janet Currie Parenting Jeanne Brooks Gunn and Lisa Markman Childcare and Early Education Katherine Magnuson and Jane Waldfogel

Private Education Debate Mason Ross, AI, 2025-02-21 Private Education Debate offers a comprehensive exploration of private education's global impact moving beyond simple assumptions to examine its complexities The book investigates the varying academic outcomes between private and public schools the socioeconomic factors influencing access to private education and the market forces driving its growth One intriguing insight is how the impact of private education significantly varies depending on national contexts and socioeconomic backgrounds The book is structured into three parts beginning with the fundamental concepts and diverse types of private schools It then delves into academic performance data drawing from OECD market studies and other reports to analyze the relationship between private schooling and student achievement Finally it investigates socioeconomic implications highlighting who accesses private education and the financial burdens it creates This approach ensures a balanced understanding making it valuable for academics policymakers educators and parents seeking to navigate the complex landscape of educational markets and school choice

Immigrant Student Achievement and Education Policy Louis Volante, Don Klinger, Ozge Bilgili, 2018-03-21 This book examines immigrant student achievement and education policy across a range of Western nations It is divided into 3 sections Part 1 introduces the topic of immigrant student achievement and the performance disadvantage that is consistently reported across a range of international jurisdictions Part 2 then presents national profiles from scholars in ten countries England Germany Italy Sweden Finland Netherlands Republic of Ireland Canada Australia and New Zealand These educational jurisdictions were selected because they represent a range of Western nations engaged in large scale reform efforts geared towards enhancing their immigrant students achievement Each of the national profiles provides a brief overview of the evolution of the cultural composition of their respective school aged student population explains the trajectory of achievement results in non immigrant and immigrant student groups in relation to both national and international large scale assessment measures and discusses the effectiveness of policy responses that have been adopted to close the achievement gap between non immigrant and immigrant student populations It also examines the relationships between education policies and immigrant student achievement and discusses how education policies have evolved across various cultural contexts In conclusion Part 3 analyzes cross cultural approaches designed to address the performance disadvantage of immigrant students and proposes future areas of inquiry stemming from the national profiles The book offers insights into a diverse cross section of nations and policy approaches to addressing the performance disadvantage
