The Communists And Peace:

The Communists and Peace Jean-Paul Sartre, 1969      The Communist "Peace Crusade" United States. Department of State. Office of Public Affairs, 1951      The Communist "peace Petition" Campaign United States. Congress. House. Committee on Un-American Activities, 1950      Report on the Communist "peace" Offensive United States. Congress. House. Committee on Un-American Activities, 1951      China and the Communist "peace Offensive." Alfred Lesesne Jenkins, 1954      The Communist "Peace Petition" Campaign Issued by the Committee on Un-American Activities (Interim Statement). United States. Congress. House. Un-American Activities, 1950      Communist Activities in the Peace Movement United States. Congress. House. Committee on Un-American Activities, 1963 Includes discussion of Yuri V Mishukovi alleged espionage activities while working for the Soviet U N Mission      The Communists Fight for Peace William Gallacher, 1949*      Communists on Peace William Norman Ewer, 1953      Structure and Organization of the Communist Party of the United States United States. Congress. House. Committee on Un-American Activities, 1962      The Communist Mind United States. Congress. House. Un-American Activities, 1957      International Communism (the Communist Mind) United States. Congress. House. Committee on Un-American Activities, 1957      War, Peace and World Orders in European History Anja V. Hartmann, Beatrice Heuser, 2002-11 This book explores a new way for students of International Relations to look at war peace and world orders throughout European history The contributors argue that the predominant realist paradigm that focuses on states and their self interest is not applicable to the largest period of European history because states either did not exist or were only in the making Instead they argue we have to look through the eyes of historical entities to see how they understood the world in which they lived The authors use a wide range of case studies focusing on subjects as diverse as the ancient Greek concept of honour and persecution under Communist regimes during the Cold War to explore the ways in which people in different societies at different times perceived and felt about war and peace in the world around them      Treaty of Peace with Germany United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Foreign Relations, 1919      "United Front" Technique of the Southern California District of the Communist Party United States. Congress. House. Committee on Un-American Activities, 1963      The Politics of Peace Petra Goedde, 2019-01-10 During a television broadcast in 1959 US President Dwight D Eisenhower remarked that people in the long run are going to do more to promote peace than our governments Indeed I think that people want peace so much that one of these days our governments had better get out of the way and let them have it At that very moment international peace organizations were bypassing national governments to create alternative institutions for the promotion of world peace and mounting the first serious challenge to the state centered conduct of international relations This study explores the emerging politics of peace both as an ideal and as a pragmatic aspect of international relations during the early cold war It traces the myriad ways in which a broad spectrum of people involved in and affected by the cold war used altered and fought over a seemingly universal concept These dynamic interactions involved three sets of global actors cold war states peace advocacy groups and anti colonial liberationists These transnational networks challenged and eventually undermined the cold war order They did so not just with reference to the United States the Soviet Union and Western Europe but also by addressing the violence of national liberation movements in the Third World As Petra Goedde shows in this work deterritorializing the cold war reveals the fractures that emerged within each cold war camp as activists both challenged their own governments over the right path toward global peace and challenged each other over the best strategy to achieve it The Politics of Peace demonstrates that the scientists journalists publishers feminists and religious leaders who drove the international discourse on peace after World War II laid the groundwork for the eventual political transformation of the Cold War     Advocate of Peace Through Justice ,1920     Stamler V. Willis ,1965     Report United States. Congress. House,     Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications, and Appendix United States. Congress. House. Committee on Un-American Activities,1951
