The Conservation Atlas Of Tropical Forests Africa:

The Conservation Atlas of Tropical Forests Jeffrey Sayer, 1992-06-18 Recognizing that sound information is vital to the progress of conservation IUCN have gathered together a visual portfolio of maps of rain forests in Africa The accompanying text analyzes the extent and causes of deforestation and points a way towards sustainable forest development The Conservation Atlas of Tropical Forests Caroline Harcourt, 1996 This final volume in the The Conservation Atlas of Tropical Forests covers the Americas It provides an up to date overview of the status of rain forests in South America Central America and the Caribbean Following the format of the two previous volumes The Conservation Atlas of Tropical Forests Asia and the Pacific 1991 and The Conservation Atlas of Tropical Forests Africa 1992 the atlas is divided into two parts Part I introduces and discusses the complex interrelated issues in the regions that are involved in both deforestation as well as conservation of the tropical forests Included are discussions on the history of the forests agricultural colonization policies and deforestation conservation policies for plants and wildlife protected areas and the future of the tropical forests Part II is a detailed and well referenced country by country analysis of conservation status and trends Four colour maps have been compiled from satellite and radar imagery aerial photography and the latest information provided by forestry departments and development agencies The conservation atlas of tropical forests A. Sayer Jeffrey, 1992 The Conservation Atlas of Tropical Forests Jeffrey A. Sayer, N. Mark Collins, Timothy Charles Withmore, 1991 World Atlas of Biodiversity Brian Groombridge, Martin Jenkins, 2002 Global biological diversity ecosystem diversity Tropical Forests, International Jungle M. Smuts, 2003-05-29 Marie Claude Smuts looks at the issue of rain forest depletion and global environmental policies Beginning with how the issue entered the world stage in the 1980s despite alarms over the issue in the 1950s Tropical Forests International Jungle explores the complexities of what are tropical forests what role they play not only in environmentalism but in trade health care and almost every facet of natural and social life for those living there and beyond Although for most in the developed world tropical forests have gained a status of part of our world heritage these forests are not really part of the global commons or a global public good Developing nations maintain control over the forests within their borders and often use the forests as they see fit The international system for mediating the issue is a fractured group of non governmental organizations and transnational networks often with competing views of how to manage tropical forests Despite this seemingly grim picture Smuts is optimistic A changing world view toward forest depletion is influencing countries both North and South Although forests will be used commercially it is a dynamic process that should maintain them far into the future African Rain Forest Ecology and Conservation William Weber, Lee J. T. White, Lisa Naughton-Treves, Amy Vedder, 2001-01-01 Extending from west Africa to Madagascar from the vast lowland Congo Basin to the archipelago of forest islands on its eastern rim the African rain forest is surpassed in size only by the Amazon This book sheds light on the current efforts to understand and conserve the African rain forest an area in need of urgent action to save its biological wealth cultural heritage and economic potential Written by conservation scientists and practitioners based in the African rain forest the book offers a multidisciplinary perspective that integrates many biological and social sciences Early chapters trace the forces from paleoecological factors to recent human actions that have shaped the African forest environment The next chapters discuss the dominant biological patterns of species ranging from the distinctive elephants gorillas and okapi to the less well known birds butterflies and amphibians Other chapters focus on how such different groups as hunter gatherers forest farmers bushmeat hunters recent immigrants and commercial foresters have used the forests Several authors stress the need for tighter links between research and conservation action The final section draws lessons from the collective experience of those working in an Africa wracked by political strife and economic hardship

Ethnobotanic Resources of Tropical Montane Forests Emmanuel Neba Ndencho, 2011 Mountain forests provide important ecological services and essential products This book focuses on the importance of mountain forests in Cameroon for the local people who depend most directly on them and have often developed a wealth of indigenous knowledge on plants and sophisticated institutions for managing limited plant and animal resources Such knowledge and institutions have often been threatened or even destroyed by centralization and globalization yet there is increasing recognition that community based institutions are the best adapted to ensuring that mountain forests continue to supply their diverse goods and services to both mountain and other people over the long term The book provides a useful combination of case studies on ethnobotanic analysis and cultural values of plants community based ecological planning for protected area management and eco cultural tourism development It provides an unusually useful combination of overviews and synthesis of theory and experience with in depth case studies of montane forest adjacent communities and protected areas Throughout the book there are good summary tables case study maps and diagrams that are relevant to the themes in question Finally the book addresses the possible mutual benefits of indigenous knowledge and modern science indigenous peoples and the development of eco cultural tourism in protected areas indigenous peoples and ecological planning in protected areas It therefore emphasizes cooperation based on partnerships amongst indigenous people governments and the global conservation community in the interest of effective conservation This is a valuable book for land managers environmental scientists environmental biologists natural resource managers and students reading subjects such as geography biology forestry botany and environmental science

Tropical Forests Thomas K. Rudel, 2005 In Tropical Forests Rudel analyzes hundreds of local studies from the past twenty years to develop a much needed global perspective on deforestation With separate chapters on individual regions including South and Central America the Caribbean and Africa Rudel's work offers an up to date assessment of the world's tropical forests In the concluding chapter Rudel considers the implications of these trends and describes policy directions for conserving biodiversity and promoting sustainable development in each region

collection of pioneering work in the study of these diverse and fascinating ecosystems It consists of facsimiles of papers chosen by world experts in tropical biology as the classics in the field Tropical Forests in Prehistory, History, and Modernity Patrick Roberts,2019-01-03 In popular discourse tropical forests are synonymous with nature and wilderness battlegrounds between apparently pristine floral faunal and human communities and the unrelenting industrial and urban powers of the modern world It is rarely publicly understood that the extent of human adaptation to and alteration of tropical forest environments extends across archaeological historical and anthropological timescales This book is the first attempt to bring together evidence for the nature of human interactions with tropical forests on a global scale from the emergence of hominins in the tropical forests of Africa to modern conservation issues Following a review of the natural history and variability of tropical forest ecosystems this book takes a tour of human and human ancestor occupation and use of tropical forest environments through time Far from being pristine primordial ecosystems this book illustrates how our species has inhabited and modified tropical forests from the earliest stages of its evolution While agricultural strategies and vast urban networks emerged in tropical forests long prior to the arrival of European colonial powers and later industrialization this should not be taken as justification for the massive deforestation and biodiversity threats imposed on tropical forest ecosystems in the 21st century Rather such a long term perspective highlights the ongoing challenges of sustainability faced by forager agricultural and urban societies in these environments setting the stage for more integrated approaches to conservation and policy making and the protection of millennia of ecological and cultural heritage bound up in these habitats

Democratic

Decentralisation through a Natural Resource Lens Jesse C. Ribot,Anne M. Larson,2013-09-13 This volume queries the state and effect of the global decentralization movement through the study of natural resource decentralizations in Africa Asia and Latin America The case studies presented here use a comparative framework to characterize the degree to which natural resource decentralizations can be said to be taking place and where possible to measure their social and environmental consequences In general the cases show that threats to national level interests are producing resistance that is fettering the struggle for reform

Sustainable Forestry Challenges for Developing Countries Matti Palo,G.

Mery,2012-12-06 This book is an outcome of a research project on Sustainable Forestry and the Environment in Developing Countries The project has been run by Metsantutki muslaitos METLA the Finnish Forest Research Institute since 1987 and will be completed this year A major output by this project has so far been a report in three volumes on Deforestation or development in the Third World The purpose of our multidisciplinary research project is to generate new knowl edge about the causes of deforestation its scenarios and consequences More knowledge is needed for more effective efficient and equitable public policy both at the national and intemationallevels in supporting sustainable forestry in develop ing countries Our project has specifically focused on 90 tropical countries as one group and on three subgroups by continents as well as the three case study countries the Philippines Ethiopia and Chile The University of Joensuu has been our active partner in the Philippine study We have complemented the three cases by the analyzes of Brazil and Indonesia the two largest tropical forest owning countries Some other interesting country studies were annexed to complement our book both by geography and expertise The United Nations University World Institute for Development Economics Research UNUIWIDER in Helsinki Finland has also been partly engaged Most of the results from its project on The Forest in the South and North in Context of Global Warming will however be published later in a separate book African Antelope Database 1998 Rod East,1999

Although most antelope species still exist in large numbers in sub Saharan Africa some in hundreds of thousands up to three quarters of the species are in decline Threats to their survival arise from the rapid growth of human and livestock populations with consequent degradation and destruction of natural habitats and excessive offtake by meat hunters In addition some parts of Africa are mow almost completely devoid of large wild animals because of uncontrolled slaughter during recent civil wars This report presents the information currently held by the IUCN SSC Antelope Specialist Group on the conservation status of each antelope species and selected subspecies in sub Saharan Africa Key areas have been identified for the conservation of representative antelope communities While external donors make the greatest contributions to the conservation of antelopes greater recognition of wildlife conservation in national and regional development plans is often a critically important requirement Global Biodiversity World Conservation Monitoring Centre,2012-12-06 Global Biodiversity is the most comprehensive compendium of conservation information ever published It provides the first systematic report on the status distribution management and utilisation of the planet s biological wealth Biosaline

Agriculture as a Climate Change Adaptation for Food Security Redouane Choukr-Allah,Ragab Ragab,2023-02-27 This book presents recent research work on Biosaline Agriculture presented during First International Forum on Biosaline Agriculture in Laayoune Morocco from May 3rd to May 4th 2019 The aim of this book is to showcase the global potential of Biosaline agriculture provide an update on the development of recent innovations in the field of Biosaline agriculture the best management practices to safely use brackish and saline water highlight the use of non conventional water in marginal environment production and the current advanced technologies of desalination of brackish and seawater The different chapters will also discuss solutions that are adapted to local conditions as part of a sustainable development perspective The book provides up to date technical and scientific data on growing crops under marginal environment so as to encourage the dissemination of this knowledge in the best practices to increase the productivity in Biosaline agriculture in view of the potential to contribute to food security The book is expected to stimulate interest in the non conventional water resources and crops among junior and senior researchers and among those who are increasingly focused on exploiting marginal environments It will also be of interest to decision makers and the public and private sectors to jointly address the issues of food security especially of the poor and vulnerable people living in marginal environments worldwide by providing innovative technology transfer
