Smoking has a significant effect on reproductive and child health.

An estimated 44.5 million adults in the USA smoke cigarettes, and tobacco use is the leading preventable cause of death in that country. Cigarette smoking during pregnancy continues to be a significant public health concern. Despite decreases in the percentage of women who smoked during pregnancy in the 1990s, the Centres for Disease Control and Prevention reported that 11.4% of mothers who gave birth during 2002 smoked. A South African study reported that 39% of pregnant women smoked, with considerable variation between racial groups.

It is known that smoking in pregnancy is associated with a number of adverse outcomes, including low birth weight, abruptio placentae, miscarriage, premature delivery and an increase in perinatal mortality. In addition, smoking affects the gametes and ovarian function, which can impair fertility, as well as having more long-lasting effects such as an earlier onset of menopause. It is also an important co-factor in the genesis of cervical cancer, one of the major health concerns in women in South Africa. This review discusses the effects of cigarette smoking on reproductive health issues.

EXPOSURE

Cigarette smoke contains over a thousand different compounds, including carbon monoxide, nicotine, polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons (PAHs), nitroso compounds, aromatic amines, protein pyrolysates and trace elements such as cadmium and nickel. Two major mutagenic compounds are nitrosamines and PAHs. The two

Borges,Huitao Li ,C. Yan Cheng,2024-07-10 Male fertility both resilient and fragile is heavily affected by external factors such as the environment drug use and eating habits in a similar way to a wall of stone that is constantly attacked and weathered to varying degrees The use of cancer drugs for instance may increase life expectancy and cure diseases but may also negatively affect male fertility A variety of factors complicate male infertility such as the intricate spermatogenesis process The available methods for diagnosis are limited not to mention treatment However some evidence showed that different reproductive physiologies may share some biological basis and thus molecular pathways such as mTOR which plays a role in testis physiology Sertoli cell function transcriptional and translational control of spermatogenesis as well as drug and environmental exposure Moreover male fertility can also reflect men s overall health and the likelihood of suffering from certain diseases suggesting that these events have common regulatory mechanisms This Research Topic aims to identify these potential shared mechanisms analyze and explore how environment disease drug use and nutritional supplements affect male fertility as well as reveal the seemingly chaotic but traceable phenomena It will be crucial for the development of diagnostics treatments and maintenance methods needed to enhance male fertility which is also the objective of this research topic This Research Topic encourages Original Research Reviews and other accepted article types including but not limited to Analyses of the possible effects of environmental pollutants brought about by industry and human activities such as endocrine disrupting chemicals EDCs on male reproduction Links between men s overall health and fertility as well as andrological effects of various illnesses including infectious diseases deficiencies hereditary diseases and physiological disorders Effects of medications and dietary supplements on male reproductive systems such as those used for cancer treatment psychiatric disorders diabetes etc The use of herbal and medicinal remedies to prevent or reverse adverse andrological effects caused by putative toxic chemicals and diseases Specific molecular mechanisms and signalling pathways that affect spermatogenesis the testis and sperm function associated with the above 4 points Shared molecular mechanisms underlying both the generation and remission of male infertility disease Comprehensive Treatise on Anovulation: Navigating the Complex Landscape of Reproductive Health Dr. Spineanu Eugenia,2024-10-05 Smoking and Health in the Americas ,1992 Low Fertility and Reproductive Health in East Asia Naohiro Ogawa,Iqbal H. Shah,2014-10-07 This book provides a unique blend of social and biomedical sciences in the field of low fertility and reproductive health It offers a significant contribution to understanding the determinants of low fertility mostly in East Asia including an assessment of the effectiveness of policies that aim to raise fertility It introduces new analytical tools and methods and shares application of innovative approaches to analyzing cross sectional and longitudinal survey data and macro socioeconomic data to shed light on changing mechanisms of low fertility in the context of reproductive health The volume introduces the demographic dividend into the study of fertility analyzes possible impact of population ageing on the amount of resources allocated to child rearing i e the so called crowding effect in social care and public spending between the elderly and children The book also tests the Low Fertility Trap LFT hypothesis a new important theory regarding fertility trends The book focuses on East Asia which is numerically large but relatively under researched with regard to issues covered in various chapters The relevance of the volume however goes beyond countries in East Asia The book breaks new grounds and reveals little known facts regarding the influence of endocrine disruptors on male fertility through falling sperm counts the phenomenon of marital sexlessness and about the sexual behavior of adolescents in East Asia
