Conceptualizing the West in International Relations J. O'Hagan, 2002-04-09 West is a concept widely used in international relations but we rarely reflect on what we mean by the term Conceptions of and what the West is vary widely This book examines conceptions of the West drawn from writers from diverse historical and intellectual contexts revealing both interesting parallels and points of divergence It also reflects on implications of these different perceptions of how we understand the role of the West and its interactions with other civilizational identities

FDI, Regionalism, Government Policy and Endogenous Growth Anthony Bende-Nabende, 2018-08-20 Published in 1999 this text investigates whether FDI caused spill over effects which have led to the economic growth of the ASEAN 5 economies and if that it so whether the ASEAN Preferential Trade Agreement APTA had a significant effect in attracting FDI to the region It takes into account the different levels of economic development of the countries under analysis The results from the structural static model suggest that FDI has stimulated economic growth through the human factors followed by technology transfer international trade and learning by doing and that the formation of APTA had a lagged influence on FDI inflows into the advantage of the more developed member countries and the disadvantage of the less developed countries Those from the multiplier dynamic effects analysis demonstrate that whereas the impact is immediate in the more developed politically stable and foreign investment friendly economies there is a time lag in those economies which are less developed and more hostile to FDI The analysis presents an empirical comparison of how the level of economic development affects the interaction of FDI regionalism and economic growth

The Battle for Asia Mark T. Berger, 2004-03 This book is a history of the Asian region from 1945 to the present day which delineates the various ideological battles over Asia's development United States Political Science Documents

, 1993 The Chicano Index, 1992 Resources in Education, 1995 Betting for and Against EMU Leila S Talani, 2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2000 An analysis of the extent to which the outcomes of the process of European monetary integration and particularly of the development of the debate over the establishment of EMU have been influenced by domestic politics and by domestic economic interest groups in Italy and in the United Kingdom From an empirical point of view the work provides an account of the development of Italian and British socio economic interest groups towards the issue of European monetary union from the making of the EMS until the establishment of EMU Reforming the Malawian Public Sector Richard I. C. Tambulasi, 2010 Reforming the Malawian Public Sector argues that the new public management model that Malawi like most African countries adopted under the influence of donor organisations has not led to the intended development The book examines decentralisation performance contracting and public private partnerships as key aspects of the reforms and comes to the conclusion that at best it can be argued that the failures have been due to poor implementation and this could be attributed to the fact that the process was led by donors who lacked the necessary institutional infrastructure The book uses the 2005 6 fertiliser subsidy programme which the government embarked on despite donor resistance that it went against market models but which turned out to be overwhelmingly successful to demonstrate the state's developmental ability and potential This volume is essential reading for academics students and practitioners seeking a deeper understanding of public administration management policy development and governance in Africa and the rest of the developing world The book is dedicated to the memory Guy Mhone a Malawian who was among Africa's leading scholars in public administration and governance His works focused mainly on public sector reforms and development
