Studies In The Teaching Of History:

Teaching History at University Alan Booth, Jeremy Black, 2003 Drawing on a wide range of international research reflections and experiences of university historians this book links theory and practice and examines how high quality history teaching and learning can be achieved today in universities world wide Knowing, Teaching, and Learning History Peter N. Stearns, Peter Seixas, Sam Wineburg, 2000-09 This four part volume identifies the problems and issues in late 20th and early 21st century history education working towards an understanding of this evolving field It aims to give both students and teachers insights into the best way of developing historical understanding in pupils Teaching History 11 - 18 Chris Husbands, Alison Kitson, 2010-07-16 Teaching History 11 18 is a comprehensive introduction to teaching learning and assessing history in secondary schools Drawing on cutting edge research and practice it draws together recent thinking in teaching and learning in history teaching and learning in secondary education more generally and classroom based research to provide a radical re thinking of the practices of teaching and learning about the past at the beginning of the twenty first century At the core of the book is a focus on diversity and its implications the diversity of classrooms in English schools cultural diversity and pluralism in accounts of the past and the diversity of pedagogic and communicative strategies at the disposal of teachers The book is realistic about the challenges a precarious place in the curriculum pupil disaffection bitter ideological debates about the purpose place and status of history but offers a forward looking rationale for the centrality of the past in debates about identity social cohesion and persona and social education Teaching for Historical Literacy Matthew T. Downey, Kelly A. Long, 2015-07-30 Teaching for Historical Literacy combines the elements of historical literacy into a coherent instructional framework for teachers It identifies the role of historical literacy analyzes its importance in the evolving educational landscape and details the action steps necessary for teachers to implement its principles throughout a unit These steps are drawn from the reflections of real teachers grounded in educational research and consistent with the Common Core State Standards The instructional arc formed by authors Matthew T Downey and Kelly A Long takes teachers from start to finish from managing the prior learning of students to developing their metacognition and creating synthesis at the end of a unit of study It includes introducing topics by creating a conceptual overview helping students collect and analyze evidence and engaging students in multiple kinds of learning including factual procedural conceptual and metacognitive This book is a must have resource for teachers and students of teaching interested in improving their instructional skills building historical literacy and being at the forefront of the evolving field of history education Issues in History Teaching James Arthur, Robert Phillips, 2000 Written by a range of history professionals including HMIs this book provides excellent ideas on the teaching learning and organization of history in primary and secondary schools Understanding History Teaching Husbands, Chris, Kitson, Alison, Pendry, Anna, 2003-09-01 Drawing on fieldwork in secondary schools and on research studies worldwide the authors pose fundamental questions about the way teachers teach and learners learn book cover Studies in the Teaching of History (Classic Reprint) Maurice Walter Keatinge, 2015-07-11

Excerpt from Studies in the Teaching of History The following pages are concerned with the teaching of boys and girls in the middle forms of secondary schools and even for this stage deal with only a small number of the numerous problems presented by the teaching of history They aim at bringing into strong relief a few fundamental positions and make no claim to be an exhaustive treatment of the subject If therefore certain methods and principles of proved value are not mentioned it must not be concluded that they have been either overlooked or undervalued My thanks for valuable advice are due to my colleague Miss A J Cooper to Mr J Wells Fellow and Tutor of Wadham College to Mr J B Baker Tutor to the Non Collegiate Students and to Mr E Barker Fellow and Tutor of St John s College It must not be assumed that they are necessarily in agreement with my views I have also to acknowledge the kindness of Prof Foster Watson who allowed me to see the proof sheets of his book The Beginnings of the Teaching of Modern Subjects in England and of Messrs A any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Studies in the Teaching of History Maurice Walter Keatinge, 1921

Engagement in Teaching History Frederick D. Drake, Lynn R. Nelson, 2009 How can history be taught effectively Does knowing about the past give meaning to the present and hints to what will happen in the future This book responds to these questions as it explores the key elements of history instruction the use of primary sources and narratives involving students in the historical inquiry through classroom discussions teaching toward chronological thinking and the use of historical documents to develop in students a detective approach to solving historical problems Taking a systematic approach to improve students historical thinking this book emphasizes certain strategies that will help students know more about the past in ways that will help them in their lives today The second edition is organized in three parts Part One describes the theoretical background to teaching history Part Two Planning and Assessment emphasizes the importance of good organization and lesson planning as well as how to assess students knowledge reasoning power and effective use of communication in the history classroom Part Three Instruction focuses on the use of primary sources class discussions incorporating photographs and paintings and writing in teaching history Both the study of history and the teaching of history are multifaceted The author s hope in writing this book is to engage new and experienced teachers in thoughtful discourse regarding the teaching and learning of history and to develop lifelong learners of history in the 21st century Teaching History Creatively Hilary Cooper, 2016-11-10 The fully updated second edition of Teaching History Creatively introduces teachers to the wealth of available approaches to historical enquiry ensuring creative effective learning This book clearly sets out the processes of historical enquiry demonstrating how these are integrally linked with key criteria of creativity and helps readers to employ those features of creativity in the classroom Underpinned by theory and research it offers informed and practical support and is illustrated throughout with examples of children s work Key themes addressed include investigating sources using archives in your own research project becoming historical agents and history detectives drama for exploring events myths and legends communicating historical understanding creatively With brand new chapters from the Stone Ages to the Iron Age using prehistoric sources The withdrawal of the Romans and the conquest and settlement of Britain by the Anglo Saxons in addition to many new case studies this exciting edition puts an emphasis on accessible recent research new evidence and interpretations and encourages the creative dynamism of the study of history Teaching History Creatively provides vivid and rich examples of the creative use of sources of approaches to understanding chronology and concepts of time and of strategies to create interpretations It is an essential purchase for any teacher or educator who wishes to embed creative approaches to teaching history in their classroom
