

Language, thought and culture

9.1 A relationship at the heart of psycholinguistics

The relationship of language, thought, and culture is a topic that is central to psycholinguistics. People throughout the ages have wondered whether speech or language is necessary for thought. Can we think without language? Does language influence culture? Does language affect our perception of nature? Does language affect our view of society and the world?

We shall deal directly with these questions. However, before doing so, we would like to begin in an indirect way – by recounting a court case, one that exemplifies the issues that we will consider. The case and the fate of Robert Meyer is true and it happened in the United States about 85 years ago.

9.1.1 The arrest of the Sunday School teacher

In May of 1920, in Hamilton County, which is a rural area in the state of Nebraska, Robert Meyer was arrested for violating a certain state law. This Nebraska law forbade the teaching of a foreign language, that is, a language other than English, to children under the age of 13 years. Meyer had been teaching Bible stories in German at Zion Parochial school to a 10-year-old boy. Since German was a foreign language for the boy, Meyer was in violation of the law. According to Nebraska's 1919 Siman Act,

No person shall teach any subject to any person in any language other than the English language. Languages other than English may be taught only after a pupil shall have . . . passed the eighth grade. . . . Any person who violates any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be subject to a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25), nor more than one hundred dollars ($100) or be confined in the county jail for any period not exceeding thirty days for each offense.

(US Supreme Court Reports, 1922, pp. 392–403)

Actually not only Nebraska but 21 other states prohibited the teaching of foreign languages. Only so-called 'dead' languages such as Latin and

Body and Language Gerd Bräuer, 2002-07-30 Highlights the bridging character of drama based foreign and second language teaching for intercultural learning Drama here is not limited to theater related work but means the interplay between body and language in general to include for example sports dancing singing and storytelling The major techniques and curricular structures of educational drama and its application in the foreign and second language classroom are introduced What are the techniques methods strategies and curricular structures that engage language learners in continuing dialogue between one's own culture and the one yet to be discovered What comprises the language we speak in order to understand and be understood Which body is it we communicate through and to This volume answers these and other questions of the pedagogy of drama based teaching across the foreign second language curriculum and on all levels of the educational pyramid There are two major issues currently discussed in drama based foreign and second language methodology The first is goal oriented asking whether the acquisition of accuracy or fluency is more important and whether a controlled learning through imitation or an open through improvisation learning environment is more efficient The second issue concerns using drama in language teaching either its use is process oriented where drama becomes an immediate medium for language learning or product oriented where it becomes primarily the reason for language learning The book outlines the theoretical frameworks of both issues and introduces personal narrative comparative observation and analytical reflection illuminating opportunities for learning at both ends of the seemingly contradictory poles of both issues      CSET Barron's Educational Series, Robert D.
