Akers, Gary F. Jensen, 2017-07-28 Social learning theory has been called the dominant theory of crime and delinquency in the United States yet it is often misrepresented This latest volume in the distinguished Advances in Criminological Theory series explores the impact of this theory Some equate it with differential association theory Others depict it as little more than a micro level appendage to cultural deviance theories There have been earlier attempts to clarify the theory s unique features in comparison to other theories and others have applied it to broader issues. These efforts are extended in this volume which focuses on developing applying and testing the theory on a variety of criminal and delinquent behavior It applies the theory to treatment and prevention moving social learning into a global context for the twenty first century. This comprehensive volume includes the latest work tests and theoretical advances in social learning theory and will be particularly helpful to criminologists sociologists and psychologists It may also be of interest to those concerned with current issues relating to delinquency drug use abuse and drinking alcohol abuse Socialization for Achievement George A. prohibition on alcohol in the 1920s did not drive up rates of violent crime Though the bootlegger wars contributed considerably to the murder rate in some of America's largest municipalities Prohibition also eliminated saloons which served as hubs of vice corruption and lawlessness The Roots of Violent Crime in America stands as a sweeping reevaluation of the causes of crimes of violence in the United States between the Gilded Age and World War II compelling readers to rethink enduring assumptions on this contentious topic Crime and Coercion M. Colvin,2000-09-01 In a major new theory of criminal behavior Mark Colvin argues that chronic criminals emerge from a developmental process characterized by recurring erratic episodes of coercion Colvin's differential coercion theory which integrates several existing criminological perspectives lays out a compelling argument that coercive forces create social and psychological dynamics that lead to chronic criminal behavior While Colvin's presentation focuses primarily on chronic street criminals the theory is also applied to exploratory offenders and white collar criminals In addition Colvin presents a critique of current crime control measures which rely heavily on coercion and offers in their place a comprehensive crime reduction program based on consistent non coercive practices
