The Early Mathematics of Leonhard Euler C. Edward Sandifer,2020-07-14 The Early Mathematics of Leonhard Euler gives an article by article description of Leonhard Euler's early mathematical works the 50 or so mathematical articles he wrote before he left

St Petersburg in 1741 to join the Academy of Frederick the Great in Berlin These early pieces contain some of Euler's greatest work the Konigsberg bridge problem his solution to the Basel problem and his first proof of the Euler Fermat theorem It also presents important results that we seldom realize are due to Euler that mixed partial derivatives are usually equal our $f_x f_x$ notation and the integrating factor in differential equations The book shows how contributions in diverse fields are related how number theory relates to series which in turn relate to elliptic integrals and then to differential equations There are dozens of such strands in this beautiful web of mathematics At the same time we see Euler grow in power and sophistication from a young student when at 18 he published his first work on differential equations a paper with a serious flaw to the most celebrated mathematician and scientist of his time It is a portrait of the world's most exciting mathematics between 1725 and 1741 rich in technical detail woven with connections within Euler's work and with the work of other mathematicians in other times and places laced with historical context

The Art of Computer Programming

Donald E. Knuth, 1997-07-04 The bible of all fundamental algorithms and the work that taught many of today's software developers most of what they know about computer programming Byte September 1995 I can't begin to tell you how many pleasurable hours of study and recreation they have afforded me I have pored over them in cars restaurants at work at home and even at a Little League game when my son wasn't in the line up Charles Long If you think you're a really good programmer read Knuth's Art of Computer Programming You should definitely send me a resume if you can read the whole thing Bill Gates It's always a pleasure when a problem is hard enough that you have to get the Knuths off the shelf I find that merely opening one has a very useful terrorizing effect on computers Jonathan Laventhol This first volume in the series begins with basic programming concepts and techniques then focuses more particularly on information structures the representation of information inside a computer the structural relationships between data elements and how to deal with them efficiently Elementary applications are given to simulation numerical methods symbolic computing software and system design Dozens of simple and important algorithms and techniques have been added to those of the previous edition The section on mathematical preliminaries has been extensively revised to match present trends in research Ebook PDF version produced by Mathematical Sciences Publishers MSP <http://msp.org>

Mathematical Constants Steven R. Finch, 2003-08-18

Steven Finch provides 136 essays each devoted to a mathematical constant or a class of constants from the well known to the highly exotic This book is helpful both to readers seeking information about a specific constant and to readers who desire a panoramic view of all constants coming from a particular field for example combinatorial enumeration or geometric optimization Unsolved problems appear virtually everywhere as well This work represents an outstanding scholarly attempt to bring together all significant mathematical constants in one place

The Theory of Functions of a Real Variable and the Theory of Fourier's Series Ernest William Hobson, 1907

Pi: The Next Generation David H. Bailey, Jonathan M.

Borwein, 2016-07-19 This book contains a compendium of 25 papers published since the 1970s dealing with pi and associated topics of mathematics and computer science The collection begins with a Foreword by Bruce Berndt Each contribution is preceded by a brief summary of its content as well as a short key word list indicating how the content relates to others in the collection The volume includes articles on actual computations of π articles on mathematical questions related to π e g Is π normal articles presenting new and often amazing techniques for computing digits of π e g the BBP algorithm for π which permits one to compute an arbitrary binary digit of π without needing to compute any of the digits that came before papers presenting important fundamental mathematical results relating to π and papers presenting new high tech techniques for analyzing π i e new graphical techniques that permit one to visually see if π and other numbers are normal This volume is a companion to Pi A Source Book whose third edition released in 2004 The present collection begins with 2 papers from 1976 published by Eugene Salamin and Richard Brent which describe quadratically convergent algorithms for π and other basic mathematical functions derived from some mathematical work of Gauss Bailey and Borwein hold that these two papers constitute the beginning of the modern era of computational mathematics This time period 1970s also corresponds with the introduction of high performance computer systems supercomputers which since that time have increased relentlessly in power by approximately a factor of 100 000 000 advancing roughly at the same rate as Moore's Law of semiconductor technology This book may be of interest to a wide range of mathematical readers some articles cover more advanced research questions suitable for active researchers in the field but several are highly accessible to undergraduate mathematics students

Pi: A Source Book J.L. Berggren, Jonathan Borwein, Peter Borwein, 2013-06-29 The aim of this book is to provide a complete history of π from the dawn of mathematical time to the present The story of π reflects the most seminal the most serious and sometimes the silliest aspects of mathematics and a surprising amount of the most important mathematics and mathematicians have contributed to its unfolding π is one of the few concepts in mathematics whose mention evokes a response of recognition and interest in those not concerned professionally with the subject Yet despite this no source book on π has been published One of the beauties of the literature on π is that it allows for the inclusion of very modern yet still accessible mathematics Mathematicians and historians of mathematics will find this book indispensable Teachers at every level from the seventh grade onward will find here ample resources for anything from special topic courses to individual talks and special student projects The literature on π included in this source book falls into three classes first a selection of the mathematical literature of four millennia second a variety of historical studies or writings on the cultural meaning and significance of the number and third a number of treatments on π that are fanciful satirical and or whimsical
