Bibliography of Nautical Books Alan Obin,1999 The Future British Surface Fleet David K. Brown,1991 This book addresses the composition of fleets according to defense needs and budgets Using Britain as an example the author analyzes the needs of modern navies and desirable fleet mixes as well as suggesting alternative approaches to problems such as quality versus quantity and ship size The Future Size and Role of the Royal Navy's Surface Fleet Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Defence Committee,John Cartwright,Great Britain. Ministry of Defence,1988 The future size and role of the Royal Navy's surface fleet Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons,Great Britain. Ministry of Defence,1988 The Future Size and Role of the Royal Navy's Surface Fleet Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Defence Committee,1988 The British Fleet Charles Napier Robinson,1894 Britain's Future Navy Nick Childs,2014-09-19 What kind of Royal Navy does Britain need now The 21st century promises to be one of huge uncertainties and challenges for the senior service Does Britain have the right naval strategy to cope with emerging threats does it have a naval strategy at all and should it and if so does the Navy have the right ships and enough of them to implement it Given the time taken to introduce changes and develop new systems policy makers naval chiefs and designers are confronted with 50 year decisions But future choices are likely to be clouded by economic uncertainties produced by the current crisis which could have implications for decades Nick Childs looks at the changing strategic environment including ever greater maritime trade and the growth of other navies such as China India South Korea revolutions in North Africa and the Middle East He asks what Britain's role in the world could or should be is she still interventionist Libya says yes If so should our forces be designed purely to work with US UN or Western European forces What are the options for a naval strategy The author then considers what kind of navy would be needed to support such options What kind of ships are needed and how many What of aircraft carriers and the nuclear option What are the technological developments affecting current and future warship design projects Is the new Type 45 destroyer what is needed and worth the cost Given the depths to which the RN has shrunk in terms of numbers public profile and strength relative to its peers this probably is a critical period in terms of determining the RN's future The Royal Navy's Surface Fleet ,2013 The British Fleet Charles N. Robinson,2020-08 The Royal Navy's New-Generation Type 45 Destroyer. Acquisition Options and Implications ,2002 The United Kingdom has several ship procurement programmes under way or planned for the future including those for new attack submarines aircraft carriers surface combatants and auxiliary ships Among these programmes is the new generation destroyer known as the Type 45 The United Kingdom intends to acquire up to a dozen of these warships for the Royal Navy beginning in 2007 These ships will be some of the largest surface combatants built for the Royal Navy since World War II and will constitute a sizeable portion of the new surface warship acquisitions that the United Kingdom plans to make over the next two decades As such the acquisition and production techniques that the UK Ministry of Defence MOD adopts for the Type 45 will be a bellwether for later acquisitions In recent years the MOD has become interested in evaluating a variety of different strategies that it might employ to acquire warships It also has become increasingly aware of excess industrial capacity in the UK s warship building sector As a result the MOD in 2001 asked RAND to help it 1 analyse the costs and benefits of alternative acquisition paths and 2 evaluate near and long term strategies that would yield the highest value encourage innovation use production capacity efficiently and sustain the UK s core warship industrial base given other current and future MOD ship programmes with particular reference to the Type 45

Britain's Naval Future James Cable,1983-03-02 The Future Size and Role of the Royal Navy's Surface Fleet ,1988 The present relative strengths of the fleets of the leading naval powers showing the weakness of the British fleet in cruisers and smaller ships Navy League,1925 Ships of the Royal Navy Oscar Parkes,1934 The British Navy from Within pseud Ex-royal navy,1914 Future navy vision Great Britain.
