Nordic Narratives of Nature and the Environment Reinhard Hennig, Anna-Karin Jonasson, Peter Degerman, 2020-07-06 Many contemporary environmental risks and global environmental changes occurring today are unprecedented in the history of human life on earth However the images and narratives through which humans relate to these phenomena are built on existing cultural tropes and narrative models Cultural social and historical contexts strongly influence how we construct images and narratives of nature and the environment It is therefore highly important to study such narratives in works of literature film and other forms of cultural expression in relation to the specific circumstances from which they arise Nordic Narratives of Nature and the Environment is the first English language anthology that presents ecocritical research on northern European literatures and cultures The contributors examine specifically Nordic narratives of nature and the environment with a focus on the cultures and literatures of the modern northern European countries Denmark Finland Norway and Sweden including S pmí which is the land traditionally inhabited by the indigenous Sami people Covering northern European literatures and cultures over a period of more than two centuries this anthology provides substantial insights into both old and new narratives of nature and the environment as well as intertextual relations the variety of cultural traditions and current discourses connected to the Nordic environmental imagination Case studies relating to works of literature film and other media shed new light on the role of culture history and society in the formation of narratives of nature and the environment and offer a comprehensive and multi faceted overview of the most recent ecocritical research in Scandinavian studies

Neoliberalism examines the relationship between contemporary American literature and politics Through readings of works by Paul Auster Karen Tei Yamashita and others Smith challenges the neoliberal notion that emotions are the property of the self

Early Ecotheology and Joseph Sittler Panu Pihkala,2017 When did Christians begin to address environmental questions What can be learned from these pioneering thinkers This study reveals that between 1910 and 1954 many theologians called for responsibility towards nature The focal point is the work of Joseph Sittler 1904 1987 an American Lutheran and ecumenical theologian The role of these early ecotheologians is discussed in relation to environmental history and education The findings show that ecotheology was not as strongly separated from other environmentalism as it was after the 1960s Series Studies in Religion and the Environment Studien zur Religion und Umwelt Vol 12 Subject Religious Studies Environmental Studies Ecotheology Joseph Sittler

Walter Scott and the Greening of Scotland Susan Oliver,2021-08-12 The work of Walter Scott one of the most globally influential authors of the nineteenth century provides us with a unique narrative of the changing ecologies of Scotland over several centuries and writes this narrative into the history of environmental literature Farmed environments mountains moors and forests along with rivers shorelines islands and oceans are explored situating Scott s writing about shared human and nonhuman environments in the context of the emerging Anthropocene Susan Oliver attends to changes and losses acting in counterpoint to the narratives of improvement that underpin modernization in land management She investigates the imaginative ecologies of folklore and local culture Each chapter establishes a dialogue between ecocritical theory and Scott as storyteller of social history This is a book that shows how Scott challenged conventional assumptions about the permanency of stone and the evanescence of air it begins with the land and ends by looking at the stars

Post-Sustainability John Foster,2018-10-22 The sustainability discourse and policy paradigm have failed to deliver In particular they have failed to avert the dangerously disruptive climate change which is now inevitable So if there is still a case for some transformed or revitalised version of sustainability that case must now surely be made in full acknowledgment of deep seated paradigm failure to date But if we really take ourselves to be living in a post sustainable world the issue of what next must be faced and the hard questions no longer shirked What options for political and personal action will remain open on a tragically degraded planet How will economic and community life political and social leadership and education be different in such a world What will the geopolitics of crisis migration and conflict look like Where does widespread denial come from how might it be overcome and are there any grounds for hope that don't rest on it. The urgent challenge now is to confront such questions honestly. This collection of essays by thinkers from a diversity of fields including politics, philosophy, sociology, education, and religion makes a start. This book was originally published as a special issue of Global Discourse. Global Appetites Allison Carruth, 2013-05-31. This literary study explores how agribusiness, industrial agriculture, and countercultural food movements underpin modern American conceptions of global power. Recomposing Ecopoetics Lynn Keller, 2018-01-16. In the first book devoted exclusively to the ecopoetics of the twenty-first century, Lynn Keller examines poetry of what she terms the self-conscious Anthropocene, a period in which there is widespread awareness of the scale and severity of human effects on the planet. Recomposing Ecopoetics analyzes work written since the year 2000 by thirteen North American poets including Evelyn Reilly, Juliana Spahr, Ed Roberson, and Jena Osman, all of whom push the bounds of literary convention as they seek forms and language adequate to complex environmental problems. Drawing as often on linguistic experimentalism as on traditional literary resources, these poets respond to environments transformed by people and take nature to be a far more inclusive and culturally imbricated category than conventional nature poetry does. This interdisciplinary study not only brings cutting-edge work in ecocriticism to bear on a diverse archive of contemporary environmental poetry; it also offers the environmental humanities new ways to understand the cultural and affective dimensions of the Anthropocene. Trauma and Spirituality in Ethnic American Women's Novels Marinella Rodi-Risberg, 2025-01-15. Trauma and Spirituality in Ethnic American Women's Novels examines a genre of ethnic American women's literature which the author calls spiritual trauma narratives that testify to traumas caused by epistemological violence wreaked by ongoing colonialism, systematic racism, and marginalization grounded in a binary hierarchical and supremacist post-Enlightenment epistemology that negates the spiritual knowledge of interconnectivity found in people of color's belief systems. Placing trauma theory in productive conversation with women of color feminist studies, Marinella Rodi-Risberg explores literary texts by Chicana, African American, and Native American authors that engage readers in the protagonists' transformative encounters with ancestral knowledge through symbols, ritual, dreaming, storytelling, and interactions with the natural world. In this way, the author argues, they model a shift in awareness regarding historical and present traumas, including slavery, genocide, racial, and sexual violence, highlighting the importance of literature as a site of knowledge production and resistance. Posthuman Southeast Asia Ignasi Ribó, 2024-12-15. Posthuman Southeast Asia: Ecocritical Entanglements Across Species Boundaries explores the posthuman in Southeast Asia from various ecocritical perspectives and encourages further and deeper entanglements between ecocritics and the bountiful but also threatened multispecies ecologies of this region. Southeast Asia is an area where humans and nonhumans have always been deeply entangled, from the indigenous and ancient traditions of animism to the variegated and blooming creativity of contemporary literature, art, music, drama, film, and other media. This book expands and enriches Southeast Asian ecocritical scholarship by incorporating posthumanist and new materialist perspectives. Across twelve chapters, this volume explicitly engages with Southeast Asian texts cultural practices and environmental issues from the broadly conceived theoretical framework of posthuman ecocriticism They provide a uniquely inflected perspective on the literary multimedia and artistic dimensions of contemporary nature cultures in Southeast Asia as part of a concerted effort to disclose the complex entanglements of humans and nonhumans across the region Water in Medieval Literature Albrecht Classen, 2017-08-15 Ecocritical thinking has sensitized us more than ever before to the tremendous importance of water for human life as it is richly reflected in the world of literature The great relevance of water also in the Middle Ages might come as a surprise for many readers but the evidence assembled here confirms that also medieval poets were keenly aware of the importance of water to sustain all life to provide understanding of life's secrets to mirror love and to connect the individual with God In eleven chapters major medieval European authors and their works are discussed here taking us from the world of Old Norse to Irish and Latin literature to German French English and Italian romances and other narratives The Bible in Theory Stephen D. Moore, 2010 The sixteen essays assembled in this volume four of them co-authored chart the successive phases of a professional life lived in the interstices of Bible and theory Engaging such texts as the Song of Songs 4 Maccabees Mark Luke Acts John and Romans and such themes as the quest for the historical Jesus the essays simultaneously traverse postmodernism deconstruction New Historicism autobiographical criticism cultural studies postcolonial studies masculinity studies queer theory and posttheory Individual essay introductions and periodic annotated bibliographies make the volume an advanced introduction to biblical literary criticism From publisher's description Telling the Stories Right Jack Baker, Jeffrey Bilbro, 2018-03-26 Wendell Berry thinks of himself as a storyteller It's somewhat ironic then that he is better known as an essayist a poet and an advocate for small farmers The essays in this collection consider the many facets of Berry's life and work but they focus on his efforts as a novelist and story writer Indeed Berry had already published three novels before his seminal work of cultural criticism The Unsettling of America established him as an ardent defender of local communities and sustainable agriculture And over the past fifty years he has published eight novels and more than forty-eight short stories set in the imagined community of Port William His exquisite rendering of this small Kentucky town challenges us to see the beauty of our own places and communities and to tend their health threatened though it inevitably is The twelve contributors to this collection approach Berry's fiction from a variety of perspectives literary studies journalism theology history songwriting to shed light on its remarkable ability to make a good life imaginable and compelling The first collection devoted to Berry's fiction this volume insists that any consideration of Berry's work must begin with his stories

The Invention of the Biblical Scholar Stephen D. Moore, Yvonne Sherwood, In this tale of two disciplines Stephen D. Moore and Yvonne Sherwood invite the reader into a paradox just as the wider field of literary studies has now come to operate after theory biblical scholars continue their long search for an elusive Holy Grail a definitive literary critical theory Understanding that paradox requires revisiting the peculiar history by which the curious figure of the biblical scholar was invented during the Enlightenment and how contemporary biblical scholarship continues however unwittingly to pursue Enlightenment goals Medieval Riverscapes Ellen F. Arnold,2024-03-28 Focusing on storytelling across centuries Arnold explores how rivers were imagined c 300 1100 and reveals a rich complex medieval world The Social Imperative Paula L. Moya,2015-12-23 In the context of the ongoing crisis in literary criticism The Social Imperative reminds us that while literature will never by itself change the world it remains a powerful tool and important actor in the ongoing struggle to imagine better ways to be human and free Figuring the relationship between reader and text as a type of friendship the book elaborates the social psychological concept of schema to show that our multiple social contexts affect what we perceive and how we feel when we read Championing and modeling a kind of close reading that attends to how literature reflects promotes and contests pervasive sociocultural ideas about race ethnicity gender and sexuality Paula M L Moya demonstrates the power of works of literature by writers such as Junot Diaz Toni Morrison and Helena Maria Viramontes to alter perceptions and reshape cultural imaginaries Insofar as literary fiction is a unique form of engagement with weighty social problems it matters not only which specific works of literature we read and teach but also how we read them and with whom This is what constitutes the social imperative of literature Handbook of Ecocriticism and Cultural Ecology Hubert Zapf,2016-05-10 Ecocriticism has emerged as one of the most fascinating and rapidly growing fields of recent literary and cultural studies From its regional origins in late twentieth century Anglo American academia it has become a worldwide phenomenon which involves a decidedly transdisciplinary and transnational paradigm that promises to return a new sense of relevance to research and teaching in the humanities A distinctive feature of the present handbook in comparison with other survey volumes is the combination of ecocriticism with cultural ecology reflecting an emphasis on the cultural transformation of ecological processes and on the crucial role of literature art and other forms of cultural creativity for the evolution of societies towards sustainable futures In state of the art contributions by leading international scholars in the field this handbook maps some of the most important developments in contemporary ecocritical thought It introduces key theoretical concepts issues and directions of ecocriticism and cultural ecology and demonstrates their relevance for the analysis of texts and other cultural phenomena
