2004-2005 Ed Bowker Staff, Staff Bowker, Ed, 2004 1492 and All that Robert Royal, 1992 The 500th anniversary of the voyage of Christopher Columbus spurred a host of politically motivated groups and organizations to attempt to recast the history of the Americas Most of these revisionists use the past as a tool by which to advance politically correct goals particularly in opposition to the US Through books lobbying campaigns and protests they are seeking to turn the anniversary commemoration into an occasion for repentance rather than celebration America in 1492: The World of the Indian Peoples Before the Arrival of Columbus Alvin M. Josephy, Jr., 1993-02 Under the editorship of the chairman of the National Museum of the American Indian 15 prominent scholars present a richly detailed portrait of the civilizations that flourished in the Americas on the eve of Columbus's arrival These essays explore societies ranging from the hunter gatherers of the Arctic to the Inca empire Photographs and maps From Columbus to Colonial America Britannica Educational Publishing, 2011-11-01 The New World as the land that comprises the United States was once known held the promise of opportunity and changing fortunes for those who discovered and colonized it Even before becoming an independent nation the land proved to be a bounteous yet challenging home This lively volume recounts the early history of America using a diverse selection of the era's personal and historic documents as guideposts America in 1492 Alvin M. Josephy, 1992 Illustrated essays on the history and cultures of American Indians Covers geographic locations languages spiritual beliefs customs and art America 1492 Manuel Lucena Salmeron, 1990 Surveys the civilization of the American peoples before the arrival of Europeans describing their culture government religion and economy Beyond 1492 James Axtell, 1992-09-17 In this provocative and timely collection of essays five published for the first time one of the most important ethnohistorians writing today James Axtell explores the key role of imagination both in our perception of strangers and in the writing of history Coinciding with the 500th anniversary of Columbus's discovery of America this collection covers a wide range of topics dealing with American history Three essays view the invasion of North America from the perspective of the Indians whose land it was The very first meetings he finds were nearly always peaceful Other essays describe native encounters with colonial traders creating the first consumer revolution and Jesuit missionaries in Canada and Mexico Despite the tragedy of many of the encounters Axtell also finds that there was much humor in Indian European negotiations over peace sex and war In the final section he conducts searching analyses of how college textbooks treat the initial century of American history how America's human face changed from all brown in 1492 to predominantly white and black by 1792 and how we handled moral questions during the Quincentenary He concludes with an extensive review of the Quincentenary scholarship books films TV and museum exhibits and suggestions for how we can assimilate what we have learned The Light and the Glory for
