The Frogs Aristophanes, 1911 The General and the Frogs Mirghani Hassan, 2014-02-14 In a Sub Saharan African country vulnerable to the whims of its dyslexic and tyrannical ruler a young man named Abdumoneim Ghoriesh enrolls in the countrys famed university laden with the scars of a recent family tragedy On his first night on campus as he falls asleep on the lawn Abdul has barely nodded off before he is jolted awake by hundreds of frogs croaking in eerie unison And so begins Abduls satirical campus journey with five other desperately poor yet immensely motivated students collectively known as Les Misrables As the nation chokes under the haze of dictatorship campus residents must endure the theocratic chauvinism of a students union controlled by radical Islamists Trapped in the labyrinths of political repression religious dogmatism and the horrors of final exams the skeptical and talented Les Misrables cultivate an extraordinary capacity for transforming despair into dark and hilarious tall tales Amid the turbulent chaos of their existence the six survive an uprising against the dyslexic tyrant while achieving academic distinction Even so a gruesome murder of a friend casts insufferable sorrow at the end of a remarkable odyssey The General and the Frogs is a tale of the incredible power of humour and of the triumph of the human spirit at a time lived most dangerously

The Battle Between the Frogs and the Mice A. E. Stallings, 2020-04-28 A virtuosic witty charming translation of the greatest epic ever written about mice with wonderful illustrations by Grant Silverstein Stallings elegant rhyming couplets are the perfect choice to honor the mousy Muse Emily Wilson Professor of Classics University of Pennsylvania From the award winning poet and translator A E Stallings comes a lively new edition of the ancient Greek fable The Battle between the Frogs and the Mice Originally attributed to Homer but now thought to have been composed centuries later by an unknown author The Battle is the tale of a mouse named Crumbsnatcher who is killed by the careless frog King Pufferthroat sparking a war between the two species This dark but delightful parable about the foolishness of war is illustrated throughout in striking drawings by Grant Silverstein The clever introduction is written from the point of view of a mouse who argues that perhaps the unknown author of the fable is not a human after all Who better than a mouse then to compose our diminutive though not ridiculous epic a mouse born and bred in a library living off lamp oil ink and the occasional nibble of a papyrus constantly perched on the shoulder of some scholar or scholiast of Homer perhaps occasionally whispering in his ear Mouse we may remember is only one letter away from Muse Stallings couplets have a lively nimble music that should captivate modern ears Providing an earthy oboe like obligato to Ms Stallings s airs are the illustrations of Grant Silverstein cross hatched sketches that multiply like mice on the page The Battle in which beans are happily worn rather than eaten still has the power to delight Wall Street Journal A E Stallings is an American poet who has lived in Athens Greece since 1999 She studied Classics at the University of Georgia and later at Oxford University She has published four collections of poetry Archaic Smile which won the 1999 Richard Wilbur Award Hapax recipient of the Poets Prize Olives a finalist for the National Book Critics Circle Award and Like a finalist for the Pulitzer Prize in Poetry Her translation of Lucretius into rhyming fourteeners The Nature of Things was called by Peter Stothard in the TLS One of the most extraordinary classical translations of recent times Grant Silverstein is an American artist who specializes in etchings of a narrative character and in studies of figures landscapes and animals With his wife and two cats he spends winters holed up in his studio in rural Pennsylvania where he uses a catch and release system for visiting mice and the occasional frog Come spring he ventures forth to display his work at outdoor festivals he feels fortunate to have made his living this way for forty years He has illustrated two previous Paul Dry Books titles Davey McGravy by David Mason and The Verb To Bird by Peter Cashwell
