The Forespoken:

Something Wicked Carol Ann Lee, 2024-10-10 On 20 August 1612 ten people from Pendle were executed before a vast crowd at Lancaster's Gallows Hill. The condemned and their associates had endured six months of accusations, imprisonment and torture; their treatment was such that one of the group died in Lancaster Castle's dungeons while awaiting trial. Today a thriving tourism industry exists in and around Pendle, the former home of the so-called witches, yet virtually everything we know about the case originates from a single source: Thomas Potts' Wonderfull Discoverie of Witches, hurriedly published in 1613 and distinctly skewed in favour of the prosecution. Until now Sunday Times bestselling author Carol Ann Lee brings an entirely fresh perspective to the story by approaching it as true crime. Having worked in the genre for more than a decade, her research leads to revelatory discoveries transforming our knowledge of those shadowy figures behind ill-famed names and the terrible events that befell them. After four centuries of superstition and surmise, the two central warring families, each headed by a fiercely independent widow working as cunning women, emerge fully formed as the book uncovers the reality of their lives and their alleged crimes before exploring the trial and executions. Along the way, we uncover the truth behind some of the story's most enduring mysteries: the legend of Malkin Tower and the final resting place of the Pendle witches. This is a ground-breaking book that will take the reader on a spellbinding journey into the dark heart of England's largest and most notorious witch trial.

Dooble Tongue is an imaginative meditation on Robert Burns and Scottish poetry as well as a book that engages and contests the customary assumptions and practices of literary criticism. Beginning with an examination of two contemporary Scottish poets, W. N. Herbert and Robert Crawford, and moving back in time to the Scottish Modernist master Hugh MacDiarmid, then further back to Burns himself, the study of the Scottish tradition is situated in a broad historical context. The focus throughout is on language, particularly Scots, more broadly vernacular literature in relation to culturally elite literary and critical modes as well as on questions of literary nationalism and the cultural politics of poetic discourse.

Handbook of Standards and Resources for Spoken Language Systems Dafydd Gibbon,Roger Moore,Richard Winski,1997      Statistical Methods for Spoken Dialogue Management Blaise Thomson,2013-01-08 Speech is the most natural mode of communication and yet attempts to build systems which support robust habitable conversations between a human and a machine have so far had only limited success A key reason is that current systems treat speech input as equivalent to a keyboard or mouse and behaviour is controlled by predefined scripts that try to anticipate what the user will say and act accordingly But speech recognisers make many errors and humans are not predictable the result is systems which are difficult to design and fragile in use Statistical methods for spoken dialogue management takes a radically different view It treats dialogue as the problem of inferring a user s intentions based on what is said The dialogue is modelled as a probabilistic network and the input speech acts are observations that provide evidence for performing Bayesian inference The result is a system which is much more robust to speech recognition errors and for which a dialogue strategy can be learned automatically using reinforcement learning The thesis describes both the architecture the algorithms needed for fast real time inference over very large networks model parameter estimation and policy optimisation This ground breaking work will be of interest both to practitioners in spoken dialogue systems and to cognitive scientists interested in models of human behaviour      Best Practices for Spoken Corpora in Linguistic Research Şükriye Ruhi,Thomas Schmidt,2014-08-11 A key concern of researchers involved in the creation and sharing of language resources is to attain maximum usability reliability and longevity of these resources for present and future researchers in the language sciences The view developed in this volume is that spoken corpora construction and sharing are major research endeavours that should also be laid open to academic debate in a manner that is more visible than is currently the case in corpus linguistics The present volume brings together multiple research perspectives to bear on the question of what constitutes best practices for the construction of spoken corpora The book brings into closer contact scholars whose specializations have often remained in relatively different streams of scientific investigation that is scholars whose work falls primarily in conversation analysis pragmatics and discourse analysis but who are involved in spoken corpus compilation on the one hand and scholars who also specialize in linguistics but who have been intensively involved in developing various infrastructures for spoken corpora on the other hand This combination of scholars brings into better relief the concerns of data providers data curators and data users in linguistic research This book is thus unique in that it highlights best practices from both the perspective of assembling annotating and linguistic analysis of spoken corpora as well as from the perspective of processing archiving and disseminating spoken language In doing so the contributions emphasise not only the considerable promise that the rapid technological changes that society continues to experience in this area offer but also possible dangers for the unwary

Domain-Level Reasoning for Spoken Dialogue Systems Dirk Bühler, Wolfgang Minker, 2011-04-07 Reasoning for Information Seeking and Planning Dialogues provides a logic based reasoning component for spoken language dialogue systems This component called Problem Assistant is responsible for processing constraints on a possible solution obtained from various sources namely user and the system s domain specific information The authors also present findings on the implementation of a dialogue management interface to the Problem Assistant The dialogue system supports simple mixed initiative planning interactions in the TRAINS domain which is still a relatively complex domain involving a number of logical constraints and relations forming the basis for the collaborative problem solving behavior that drives the dialogue
