Skin Immune System Sis:

Skin Immune System (SIS) Jan D. Bos, 1997-04-10 Immunodermatology is a field covering the majority of skin diseases including the most prevalent ones in the general population. The Second Edition of Skin Immune System SIS discusses immune mediated skin diseases and disease groups in which the SIS plays a role. It covers major findings in immunophysiology and immunopathology that have occurred since the introduction of the First Edition in 1990. As the subtitle indicates, the Second Edition adds a new emphasis on cutaneous immunology and also includes new information on immune based therapeutic interventions and methods such as phototherapy and the immunological therapy of skin cancer. The book contains Part I with introductory chapters, Part II with descriptions of the cellular elements, and Part III which describes the humoral and molecular components of SIS. Part IV follows to integrate the facts described in Parts II and III into concepts of pathophysiology. It contains a number of concepts entitled response patterns that describe how the constitutional elements of SIS work together. New in this edition are the descriptions of immunodermatological diseases individually described in Part V. Part VI is also all new and summarizes principles of immunotherapy.

Skin Cancer after Organ Transplantation Eggert Stockfleth,Claas Ulrich,2009-05-05 Organ transplantation has been performed for almost 40 years with steadily increasing success regarding long time survival of the graft as well as quality of life for the patient However graft tolerance only can be achieved via induction and maintenance of an impaired immunological surveillance An increase of skin cancers as a consequence of the lowered cellular immunoresponse seems to parallel the overall increased long time survival rate of organ transplant recipients Against the background of chronic immunosuppression known risk factors like the amount of sun exposure prior and post transplantation oncogenic viruses as well as the genetic background and place of residence latitude are strongly related with the increased skin cancer incidence The increasing incidence of non melanoma skin cancer paralleling a prolonged survival of patients after organ transplantation represents a significant reason for morbidity and long term morbidity in organ transplant recipients worldwide The incidence of non melanoma skin cancer in liver kidney and heart transplant recipients varies from 1.5 to 22 % 2 to 24 % and 6 to 34 % after 5 years post transplant Ultraviolet radiation as well as immunosuppressive therapy are crucial risk factors regarding the induction and progression of skin cancer Ultraviolet radiation is related to the induction of DNA damage as well as interference with Langerhans cell antigen presentation and a Th1 Th2 shift induced via a release of IL 10 Whereas the overall duration of immunosuppression and the cumulative dosage applied are relevant parameters in the evaluation of an increased tumor risk individual differences between specific immunosuppressive agents remain unclear The workup of genetic as well as other unclear phenomenon like the reverse BCC SCC ratio might shed some further light into the genesis and immunology of the non melanoma skin cancer in general

W. Clark Lambert, Benvenuto Giannotti, Willem A. van Vloten, 2012-12-06 This book is based upon a series of papers originally presented at a NATO Advanced Studies Workshop of the same title held at the study Center HI Cappuccini a converted monastery in San Miniato a small village located between Pisa and Florence Italy in October 1991 Authors were asked to submit their completed chapters by the following February these were then scanned onto computer disks edited and returned to the authors for final revision and updating with a final deadline of February 1993 The authors were encouraged to make whatever modifications they wanted especially regarding updating their chapters with an eye to making the final product both comprehensive and current In this we succeeded beyond our expectations with most chapters extensively altered and many completely re written and significantly expanded Thus although the original meeting was held in 1991 the chapters in this volume may be regarded as current from at least February 1993 with some of the final updated revisions received as late as July 1993 This book as agreed in our original contract has been delivered to the publisher camera ready This means that all of the scanning editing proofing and typesetting were done here by the office of the Department of Dermatology at the New Jersey Medical School We essentially produced the book which the publisher for the most part then photocopied This has been an enormous burden borne mainly by my colleague in this division Robert A Dermatology in Clinical Practice Zohra Zaidi, S. W. Lanigan, 2010-03-10 Books on dermatology are either focused for medical students or for students of dermatology A general practitioner sees a lot of skin patients about 17% of their patients are related to skin disease We therefore decided to write a book that should meet the needs of a general practitioner To make the book helpful for the primary care physician we have focused more on common skin problems and have discussed the diagnosis and treatment of these disorders in depth to help the general practitioner in diagnosing and treating them The chapter on the management of skin diseases also gives the details of topical systemic and the physical modalities used in treating skin disease. Uncommon skin diseases are only mentioned where required. The chapter on cutaneous manifestations of systemic diseases will help the general practitioner to correlate the cutaneous signs of the common medical problems seen by them. Emphasis is laid on the bacterial, fungal and parasitic disorders that are prevalent in tropical countries. We have included the common diseases of other continents as the general practitioner especially of developed countries has patients from all over the world. Congenital and hereditary disorders are discussed with the corresponding chapters which makes it easier for the reader to remember. A number of practical points are included with each subject and history of dermatology is included where appropriate to make the subject interesting to read.
