Staples Markets And Cultural Change Selected Essays:

Staples, Markets, and Cultural Change Harold Adams Innis, 1995 This new edition of Harold Innis's essays published on the occasion of his centenary assembles his most significant and representative writing Included are many of Innis's essays on cultural issues and economic development subjects he explored throughout his life that have not been readily accessible before

Cultural Studies and Political Economy Robert E. Babe, 2010-05-10 This book addresses the notorious split between the two fields of cultural studies and political economy Drawing on the works of Harold Innis Theodor Adorno Raymond Williams Richard Hoggart E P Thompson and other major theorists in the two fields Robert E Babe shows that political economy can be reconciled to certain aspects of cultural studies particularly with regards to cultural materialism Uniting the two fields has proven to be a complex undertaking though it makes practical sense given the close interaction between political economy and cultural studies Babe examines the evolution of cultural studies over time and its changing relationship with political economy The intersections between the two fields center around three subjects the cultural biases of money the time space dialectic and the dialectic of information

Who is Afraid of the State? Gordon S. Smith, Gordon Scott Smith, Daniel Wolfish, 2001-01-01 The essays in this collection argue that contrary to some private sector populists the state is in the best position to lead in making policy in a rapidly changing world and should retain and refine this responsibility

Making Muskoka Andrew Watson, 2022-10-15 Muskoka Now a magnet for nature tourists and wealthy cottagers the region underwent a profound transition at the turn of the twentieth century Making Muskoka traces the evolution of the region from 1870 to 1920 Over this period settler colonialism upended Anishinaabe and Haudenosaunee communities but the land was unsuited to farming and within the first generation of resettlement tourism became an integral feature of life Andrew Watson considers issues such as rural identity tensions between large and household scale logging operations and the dramatic effects of consumer culture and the global shift toward fossil fuels on settlers ability to control the tourism economy after 1900 Making Muskoka uncovers the lived experience of rural communities shaped by tourism at a time when sustainable opportunities for a sedentary life were few on the Canadian Shield and reveals the consequences for those living there year round

Harold Innis in the New Century Charles R. Acland, William J. Buxton, 1999-10-19 The book is divided into three sections Reflections on Innis provides a historical reassessment of Innis Gaps and Silences considers the limitations of both Innis's thought and his interpreters and Innis and Cultural Theory offers speculations on his influence on cultural analysis The interpretations offered reflect the changing landscape of intellectual life as boundaries between traditional disciplines blur and new interdisciplinary fields emerge Harold Innis in the New Century is a valuable resource for scholars and students of Canadian studies communication studies cultural studies economic history and political science Contributors include Charles R Acland Calgary Alison Beale Simon Fraser Jody Berland York James Bickerton St Francis Xavier William J Buxton Concordia James Carey Columbia Ray Charron Concordia Cheryl Dahl University College of the Political Ecology David Bell, Leesa Fawcett, Roger Keil, Peter Penz, 2005-08-18 This collection addresses environmental issues from a contemporary political economy perspective The papers explore issues such as the link between culture and nature the impact of humanity on the environment technology s role and communications Culture, Economy, Power Winnie Lem, Belinda Leach, 2012-02-01 Grounded in a conviction that anthropological knowledge implies critique and that engaging in anthropology is also ultimately an act of praxis various contributors explore the ways in which the precepts of Marxism continue to illuminate and enhance our understanding of culture economy and politics They focus on the question of epistemology to examine the process of anthropological intellectual production in different national settings and analyze the ways in which hierarchies of power and forms of state domination figure in the formation of subjectivities in different ethnographic contexts The authors also reflect upon how class gender ethnicity racialized forms of ethnicity as well as regional and national identities are configured through the relationships involved in making a living under late capitalism

The Thin Edge of Innovation Roger Hayter, Jerry Patchell, Kevin Rees, 2025-02-14 Aligned with global trends in post industrialization the economy of Metro Vancouver is changing but along its own trajectory The focus is shifting away from resource based activities to local entrepreneurial initiatives across a remarkable range of industries from software to craft beer biopharmaceuticals to mountain bikes This evolution is being shaped by local business and the city s location on the national and global periphery The Thin Edge of Innovation focusses on the performance of signature businesses in these entrepreneurial sectors to grow and foster industrial clusters and integrate with the global economy The contributors give a mixed report card to this economic transition Within Metro Vancouver innovation has stimulated economic diversification and promises to deliver high income jobs But this diversification has also been thinly spread and lacks deep local roots or dominant anchor companies This constructive study examines the distinctive opportunities facing Metro Vancouver Despite challenges it reveals a region with undoubted potential for sustained broadly beneficial local development Transforming

Urban Waterfronts Gene Desfor, Jennefer Laidley, Quentin Stevens, Dirk Schubert, 2010-10-04 The collection engages with major theoretical debates and empirical findings on how waterfronts transform and have been transformed in port cities in North and South America Europe and the Caribbean It brings together authors from a broad range of disciplinary backgrounds to tackle vital questions of waterfront development The Role of the State in China's Urban System

Development Jiejing Wang, 2021-02-13 This book investigates how the state intervenes in the urban system in China in the post reform period To do so it constructs a conceptual framework based on the perspective of political hierarchy suggesting that the state power is hierarchically organized in China s urban system leading to variations in urban government capacities

among cities The book reveals that the state has largely achieved the goal of its national urban system policy to strictly control the scale of large cities resulting in the under development of the large cities if they are mainly developing according to the market force However this has become less influential with the advances toward a market economy Further state regulation and policies have reduced the gaps between cities at the top and bottom of the urban hierarchy The book argues that the Urban Administrative System UAS is an important tool for the state to regulate urban system development and the administrative level has a significant effect on urban growth performance It contends that China s urban system is strongly shaped by the omnipresent state through the UAS which hierarchically differentiates between the urban growth processes By controlling the administrative level upgrading process the state can prevent the size and number of cities from increasing too rapidly This theoretical and empirical enquiry highlights the fact that the hierarchical power relations among cities and the resulting variations in urban government capacities are the key to understanding the role of the state in China s urban system development in the post reform period
