Teaching Academic Literacy:

Teaching Academic Literacy Katherine L. Weese, Stephen L. rhetorical research on writing in the disciplines cognitive research on expertise in ill defined problems and sociological and historical research on the professions The author produced this volume as a result of a research program aimed at understanding the relationship between two concepts literacy and expertise which traditionally have been treated as quite separate phenomena A burgeoning literature on reading and writing in the academy has begun to indicate fairly consistent patterns in how students acquire literacy practices This literature shows furthermore that what students do is quite distinct from what experts do While many have used these results as a starting point for teaching students how to be expert the author has chosen instead to ask about the interrelationship between expert and novice practice seeing them both as two sides of the same project a cultural historical professionalization project aimed at establishing and preserving the professional privilege The consequences of this professionalization project are examined using the discipline of academic philosophy as the site for the author s investigations Methodologically unique these investigations combine rhetorical analysis protocol analysis and the analysis of classroom discourse The result is a complex portrait of how the participants in this humanistic discipline use their academic literacy practices to construct and reconstruct a great divide between expert and lay knowledge This monograph thus extends our current understanding of the rhetoric of the professions and examines its implications for education Scaffolding Academic Literacy with Low-Proficiency Users of English Simon

Green,2020-01-31 This book analyses the development of academic literacy in low proficiency users of English in the Middle East It highlights the challenges faced by students entering undergraduate education in the region and the strategies used by teachers to overcome them The author focuses on a large scale undergraduate teacher programme run in Oman by the University of Leeds providing clear pointers both for future research and effective practice He also explores the implications of his findings for countries beyond the Gulf Cooperation Council demonstrating how international participation in UK HE could be much wider This book will appeal to students and scholars with an interest in academic literacies and English for Academic Purposes Academic Literacy Jill Lewis,2001 Designed for mid level developmental readers Academic Literacy combines a reading strategies handbook with discipline specific readings Part I Handbook for Reading and Study Strategies emphasizes active reading and the basics of comprehension topics main ideas supporting details patterns of organization understanding vocabulary and notetaking The seven chapters in Part II Discipline Specific Readings introduce students to readings typically encountered in seven different college disciplines
