Research on Effective Models for Teacher Education D. John McIntyre, David M. Byrd, 2000-02-03 This yearbook addresses the nation's pressing need to train and retain good teachers as it explores exemplary practices in teacher education. Areas of critical concern include enhancing professional development methods for improving teaching and learning transformations through mentoring and social interaction and effective models for alternative programs in teacher education. Teacher Education Quarterly, 1993

Handbook of Research on Teachers of Color and Indigenous Teachers Conra D. Gist, Travis J. Bristol, 2022-10-15 Teachers of Color and Indigenous Teachers are underrepresented in public schools across the United States of America with Black Indigenous and People of Color making up roughly 37% of the adult population and 50% of children but just 19% of the teaching force. Yet research over decades has indicated their positive impact on student learning and social and emotional development particularly for Students of Color and Indigenous Students. A first of its kind the Handbook of Research on Teachers of Color and Indigenous Teachers addresses key issues and obstacles to ethnoracial diversity across the life course of teachers' careers such as recruitment and retention, professional development and the role of minority serving institutions. Including chapters from leading researchers and policy makers the Handbook is designed to be an important resource to help bridge the gap between scholars, practitioners and policy makers. In doing so this research will serve as a launching pad for discussion and change at this critical moment in our country's history. The volume's goal is to drive conversations around the issue of ethnoracial teacher diversity and to provide concrete practices for policy makers and practitioners to enable them to make evidence based decisions for supporting an ethnoracially diverse educator workforce now and in the future.

Making Schools Work for Underachieving Minority Students Josie G. Bain, Joan L. Herman, 1990-06-27 Labeled A Nation at Risk Americans are urgently seeking reform in their public school systems. While many promising programs are being developed they have not yet been validated. The national conference Making Schools Work for Underachieving Minority Students shared the best of what is presently known and deliberated on the implications for research, policy and practice. Sponsored by CRESST Center for Research on Evaluation Standards and Student Testing The National Urban League and the National Council of LaRaza the conference was financed by the U.S. Department of Education. Closely following the structure of the conference this volume's contributors examine education's current status. They then investigate potentially promising approaches to specific problem areas. Contributors treat issues of evaluation and testing and conclude by addressing the potential of collaborative efforts. Responding to a major challenge community groups and organizations throughout the country are seeking answers to the problem of underachieving minority students. This volume builds on these shared interests and is a first step toward an intervention process. Topics covered include creating effective instructional programs, reducing the dropout rate, preparing students for secondary and postsecondary success helping limited English proficient students and improving teacher quality The volume s contributors hope to promote dialogue on promising practices foster collaboration identify critical R D needs and collaborative arrangements and identify testing and evaluation issues for subsequent inquiry How to Become a More Effective Teacher of Minority Students Dr. Azel C.
