The Code Breaker -- Young Readers Edition Walter Isaacson, 2022-04-26 Walter Isaacson's #1 New York Times bestselling history of our third scientific revolution CRISPR gene editing and the quest to understand the code of life itself is now adapted for young readers When Jennifer Doudna was a sixth grader in Hilo Hawaii she came home from school one afternoon and found a book on her bed It was The Double Helix James Watson's account of how he and Francis Crick had discovered the structure of DNA the spiral staircase molecule that carries the genetic instruction code for all forms of life This book guided Jennifer Doudna to focus her studies not on DNA but on what seemed to take a backseat in biochemistry figuring out the structure of RNA a closely related molecule that enables the genetic instructions coded in DNA to express themselves Doudna became an expert in determining the shapes and structures of these RNA molecules an expertise that led her to develop a revolutionary new technique that could edit human genes Today gene editing technologies such as CRISPR are already being used to eliminate simple genetic defects that cause disorders such as Tay Sachs and sickle cell anemia For now however Jennifer and her team are being deployed against our most immediate threat the coronavirus and you have just been given a front row seat to that race

Cultural Narration Bryant Griffith, 2008-01-01 Education is a dance of complexity and struggle Unfortunately our educational system is tied to the observable and the verifiable not the randomness of human beings and their diverse forms of expression The reality of the contemporary classroom is a context of multifaceted diversity with each classroom reflecting unique combinations of ideology culture and language played out in numerous forms and permutations of multi textual discourses The influence of each contextual space is only limited by one's ability to understand its complexity and to acknowledge it Teachers and learners are roommates of sorts connected by the web of discourse and praxis woven inside the global community We live in a world where common understanding is desperately sought yet one where language is often not tied to common understanding Exploring the need for shared community within this context Griffith provides a path in which the diverse ways of knowing can interlace to form pedagogical moments in which teachers and learners can deconstruct and construct alternatives Cultural narration is based on a series of social relationships which can be compared to reading the world as a series of texts As readers become a part of the reconstruction process the educational system can be visualized as a series of cautionary tales about possibilities about ways to live and build community in this modern postmodern world The author focuses on the nature of discourse and the importance of engaging in dialogue about what it means to be other conscious what it means to address questions about who we are and how we came to be who we are This path is continuously under construction it is always in the process of becoming what is appearing on the horizon As teachers learn to commit themselves to the gaps revealed by the narratives of their students classrooms become discourse communities and contact zones co constructing contextual discourses which acknowledge ritual and gesture manifested in various forms of text
