PROGRAM NOTES

Schubert wrote his "Unfinished" Symphony in 1822 for a music society in Austria in appreciation for bestowing honorary membership upon him. The two-movement symphony was presented to the director of the society, who apparently stuck it in a drawer and promptly forgot about it—as did Schubert himself! It was not until 1865, 37 years after the composer's death, that the symphony was finally premiered. We will probably never know why Schubert left his 8th symphony incomplete. Of all the theories proposed, the most likely is simply that the composer instinctively felt that its two movements were a unified whole and artistically complete without the addition of a Scherzo and Finale. (Schubert started a third movement, completed only nine measures, and put the work aside.)

Edmund Rubbra's music has given him a reputation as a spiritual composer who had an interest in Eastern thought and a mid-life conversion to Roman Catholicism. This book takes a wide and detailed view of spiritual dimensions or strands that were important in his life, positioning them both biographically and within the context of contemporaneous English culture. It proceeds to interpret through detailed analysis the ways these spiritual aspects are reflected in specific compositions. Thematic treatment of these spiritual issues touching on Theosophy, dance, Eastern religions and thought, nature, the evolutionary theory of Teilhard de Chardin and the Christ figure presents a multi-faceted view of Rubbra's life and music. Its contribution to a scholarly re-evaluation of his place within twentieth-century British music and culture engages and meshes with several areas of current scholarly research in the arts and humanities, including academic interest in Theosophy, modernism and the arts, experimental dance and the Indian cultural renaissance and East-West musical interactions of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. It also adds to a burgeoning body of writings on music and spirituality fuelled by the popularity of later twentieth-century and contemporary composers who make more overt spiritual references in their music.

The Schubert song transcriptions for solo piano: Winterreise ; Geistliche Lieder ; La rose ; Lob der Thränen ; Die Forelle Franz Liszt, 1996-01-01 Of the many piano transcriptions Franz Liszt made of the works of other composers, those he made of the songs of Franz Schubert are among his most inspired. These rare transcriptions offer a unique blending of Classical inspiration with Romantic virtuosity.
