Highlander John M. Glen, 2021-10-21 and racial justice during a critical era in southern and Appalachian history This volume is the first comprehensive examination of that extraordinary and often controversial institution Founded in 1932 by Myles Horton and Don West near Monteagle Tennessee this adult education center was both a vital resource for southern radicals and a catalyst for several major movements for social change During its thirty year history it served as a community folk school as a training center for southern labor and Farmers Union members and as a meeting place for black and white civil rights activists As a result of the civil rights involvement the state of Tennessee revoked the charter of the original institution in 1962 At the heart of Horton's philosophy and the Highlander program was a belief in the power of education to effect profound changes in society By working with the knowledge the poor of Appalachia and the South had gained from their experiences Horton and his staff expected to enable them to take control of their own lives and to solve their own problems John M Glen's authoritative study is more than the story of a singular school in Tennessee It is a biography of Myles Horton co founder and long time educational director of the school whose social theories shaped its character It is an analysis of the application of a particular idea of adult education to the problems of the South and of Appalachia And it affords valuable insights into the history of the southern labor and the civil rights movements and of the individuals and institutions involved in them over the past five decades

Memoirs of the Life and Work of Philip Pearsall Carpenter Philip Pearsall Carpenter, 1880

Paths Not Taken Henry R. Winkler, 2000-11-09 Distinguished historian Henry Winkler examines the changing and often contradictory views that characterized the British Labour party's approach to foreign policy from the end of World War I

through the 1920s He documents the progression from Labour's general indifference toward international issues before World War I to its almost total rejection of the prevailing international order after the war to its eventual grudging acceptance of the need to work for international cooperation through existing institutions In the early 1920s the Labour party began to abandon its earlier positions of pacifism and class struggle in favor of a more pragmatic approach to foreign affairs as party leaders recognized the possibility that they might one day come to power Central to the shift in policy were such leaders as J R Clynes Norman Angell Arthur Henderson Hugh Dalton Philip Noel Baker and Will Arnold Forster who rejected traditional policies and who supported the League of Nations and more tentatively collective security According to Winkler these positions might have offered a viable alternative to the ruling Conservative party agenda had they not been undermined by the disintegration of the entire European order in the 1930s Originally published 1994 A UNC Press Enduring Edition UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print These editions are published unaltered from the original and are presented in affordable paperback formats bringing readers both historical and cultural value The Church Invisible ,1922

From Psychiatric Patient to Citizen Liz Sayce,1999-12-07 This book proposes theoretical models and practical strategies for tackling the widespread social exclusion faced by people diagnosed mentally ill Based primarily on research in the US and UK but with reference to other international examples it analyses evidence of discrimination and the effectiveness of different remedies disability discrimination law work to re frame media and cultural images grassroots inclusion programmes challenges to the nimby factor It places the growing user survivor and disability movements as central to achieving any radical change The Medical Interpreter ,1922 Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Committee on Education and Labor United States.
