commodity markets for food they have a different nature different dynamics a different redistribution of value added different prices and different relations between producers and consumers Nested markets embody distinction viz a viz the general markets in which they are embedded A key aspect of nested markets is that these are constructed in and through social struggles which in turn positions this book in relation to classic and new institutional economic analyses of markets These markets emerge as steadily growing parts of the farmer populations are dedicating their time energy and resources to the design and production of new goods and services that differ from conventional agricultural outputs The speed and intensity with which this is taking place and the products and services involved vary considerably across the world In large parts of the South notably Africa farmers are structurally combining farming with other activities By contrast in Europe and large parts of Latin America farmers have taken steps to generate new products and services which exist alongside ongoing agricultural production This book not only discusses the economic rationales and dynamics for these markets but also their likely futures and the threats and opportunities they face
