She felt like there was no gain in her attempt to outrun it, constantly hearing the footsteps gaining on her faster and faster. There was some part of her that knew this was going to happen; it was bound to happen but not the way she expected. They had been dabbling into something that should have been left alone for years. She gave a glance back to see if she was gaining positive ground when she felt the icy touch on her face. Her body collapsed leaving her to see the looming evil around her. She wanted to scream, tried so hard but there was nothing, nothing but the darkness she had played with for so long. Her final memory was the face of evil baring its awful look upon. Pond River Ocean Rain Charles Lattimore Howard, 2017-02-07 For those who seek to find new depths in their spiritual lives, Pond River Ocean Rain helps readers wade into the beautiful water that is God through stories, questions, and accessible illustrations. Feel the Living Water wash over you while contemplating chapters on stillness such as a pond, the full trust in God's will much like the rush of a river, peace within mystery as experienced in the depths of the ocean, and the movement of God's relentless love for us, the refreshing rain we receive. Pond River Ocean Rain like all bodies of water is simple, occasionally wild, and consistently beautiful. And there are depths that when explored reveal abundant life for all who jump in. "Neither Letters nor Swimming": The Rebirth of Swimming and Free-diving John M. McManamon, 2021-03-01 In a novel study of the impact of classical culture, John McManamon demonstrates that Renaissance scholars rediscovered the importance of swimming to the ancient Greeks and Romans and conceptualized the teaching of swimming as an art. The ancients had a proverb that described a truly ignorant person as knowing neither letters nor swimming. McManamon traces the ancient textual and iconographic evidence for an art of swimming, demonstrates its importance in warfare, and highlights the activities of free divers who exploited the skill of swimming to earn a living. Renaissance theorists of a humanist education first advocated a rebirth for swim training. Erasmus included the classical proverb in his Adages, and two sixteenth-century scholars wrote treatises in dialogue form on methods for teaching young people how to swim. The Year's Best Dark Fantasy & Horror Paula Guran, 2023-10-24 The Year's Best Dark Fantasy Horror series returns with a splendidly startling fourth volume. Rivers of Darkness, Visions of Light Larry A. White, 2010-11 Rivers of Darkness Visions of Light From Extortion to Salvation is the true story of an extortion attempt and of the life that both precedes and follows the decision to commit the crime The story involves a maze of psychological and spiritual twists to maintain an element of growing suspense throughout This true account is told with an unusual transparency revealing normally hidden personal thoughts vulnerabilities and motivations The first chapter opens with a glimpse into the tormented mind of a young child separated from life and love and the second chapter has the reader swimming along with the author in the Mississippi River for five miles in a daring nighttime operation to pick up a packaged bundle of cash along a New Orleans riverbank Action follows with the site being under continual and hidden surveillance by a seven man team headed by the FBI The story then reverts to the events that helped shape the life that brought about this crime and a chronology unfolds throughout the next fourteen chapters that affords a view of human nature that is painfully honest at times disturbing and eventually uplifting as reconciliation with God and man is achieved This is a story of one man reaching out to God his finding only walls and silence and his acting out of an absolute sense of futility and frustration Then when least expected as that life finally seemed to come together with a notable measure of success as a commercial deep sea diver in the Gulf of Mexico the real story of life begins The reader gets a front row seat with an unobstructed view to see how a life plays out when a person first rejects and then ultimately receives spiritual light
