Environmental History of Water Petri S. Juuti, Tapio Katko, H.

Vuorinen, 2007-02-01. The World Water Development Report 2003 pointed out the extensive problem that sadly the tragedy of the water crisis is not simply a result of lack of water but is essentially one of poor water governance. Cross-sectional and historical intra-national and international comparisons have been recognized as a valuable method of study in different sectors of human life including technologies and governance. Environmental History of Water fills this gap with its main focus being on water and sanitation services and their evolution. Altogether 34 authors have written 30 chapters for this multidisciplinary book which divides into four chronological parts from ancient cultures to the challenges of the 21st century, each with its introduction and conclusions written by the editors. The authors represent such disciplines as history of technology, history of public health, public policy, development studies, sociology, engineering, and management sciences. This book emphasizes that the history of water and sanitation services is strongly linked to current water management and policy issues as well as future implications. Geographically, the book consists of local cases from all inhabited continents. The key penetrating themes of the book include especially population growth, health, water consumption, technological choices, and governance. There is great need for general long-term analysis at the global level. Lessons learned from earlier societies help us to understand the present crisis and challenges. This new book Environmental History of Water provides this analysis by studying these lessons.

Taking Care of the Future Oliver Pattenden, 2018-03-06

Taking Care of the Future examines the moral dimensions and transformative capacities of education and humanitarianism through an intimate portrayal of learners, volunteers, donors, and educators at a special needs school in South Africa and a partnering UK-based charity. Drawing on his professional experience of inclusive education in London, Oliver Pattenden investigates how systems of schooling regularly exclude and mishandle marginalized populations, particularly exploring how street kids and poverty-afflicted young South Africans experience these dynamics as they attempt to fashion their futures. By unpacking the ethical terrains of fundraising, voluntourism, Christian benevolence, human rights, colonial legacies, and the post-apartheid transition, Pattenden analyzes how political, economic, and social aspects of intervention materialize to transform the lives of all those involved.
