South Africa Who Cares:

Perspectives on Palliative Care for Children and Young People Rita Pfund, Susan Kerry-Fowler, 2017-11-22

Advances in medical science and technology are saving the lives of more children worldwide than ever. Some survive and live out a normal life expectancy; others have a life-limiting, life-threatening diagnosis where death may come early; and still others will live on well past projected life trajectories into adulthood. With so many different care pathways, children, parents, and communities often find themselves facing challenges for which neither they nor their healthcare systems are prepared. This book opens a global discussion of these issues. Extending Rita Pfund's text Palliative Care Nursing of Children and Young People, it invites paediatric palliative care professionals, parents, and children from around the globe to share their knowledge and experience. This book is of vital interest to palliative care professionals, parents, policy makers, and academics. It is an important move towards ensuring that all children and their families, regardless of geographical location, gender, ethnicity, or socio-economic class, have equal and guaranteed access to comprehensive paediatric palliative care services.

Integrated Diabetes Care David Simmons, Helmut Wenzel, Janice C. Zgibor, 2016-10-31 Integrating care across disciplines and organisations around the needs of the person with diabetes has been proposed as an approach that could improve care while reducing cost, but has it and can it? Integrated Diabetes Care: A Multidisciplinary Approach collates evidence of worldwide approaches to both horizontal integration across disciplines and vertical integration across organizations in diabetes care and describes what was done, what worked, and what appeared to be the barriers to achieving the goals of the programmes. Evidence is sought from groups who have developed different approaches to integrating diabetes care in different health systems, e.g. insurance vs. tax payer funded, single vs. multiple organization, published vs. unpublished. A final chapter brings the evidence together for a final discussion about what seems to work and what does not.

Consumer-Centered Computer-Supported Care for Healthy People H.-A. Park, P.J. Murray, C. Delaney, 2006-06 This publication, initiated by the Korean Society of Medical Informatics (KOSMI) and its Nursing Informatics Specialist Group and the Special Interest Group in Nursing Informatics of the International Medical Informatics Association (IMIA), is published for nurses and informatics experts working with informatics applications in nursing care administration, research, and education, bringing together the worlds of nursing informatics. Korea is well known for having the highest level of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) accessibility in the world. Advances in ICT in Korea have led Korean health care sectors to fully utilize the benefit of ICT for health care. The theme of the book, Consumer-Centered Computer-Supported Care for Healthy People, emphasizes the central role of the consumer and the function of information technology in health care. It reflects the major challenge in our time, which is developing and using information technology for the improvement of consumer-oriented health care. I would seriously recommend that this book, in text form, should be available in all nursing libraries as a resource for study and reference in the expanding area of nursing and health care. Paula M. Procter, Reader in Informatics and Telematics.
