Baker, Rod Stipe, James Reston, Jr., Anne Braden, Mark Pinsky, Joan Little, Rebecca Ranson, Michael Bert McCarthy, Jim Overton, Bob Arnold, Tom Terrill, Jerrold Hirsch, John O'Connor, John Egerton, Harriet McLeod, When Judge Ernest N Dutch Morial was elected the first black mayor of this South Coast city November 13 1977 political observers all around the country sat up to take notice New Orleans is the nation's fourth blackest city relative to percent of total population and the largest and most powerful city in the third blackest state in the country When he took over the reins of the nation's second largest port the Southern terminus of the mid-continent grain export oil import traffic carried by the Mississippi River Dutch Morial became perhaps the country's most powerful elected black official The true significance of Morial's November victory can really be understood only in the context of the history of Afro-American involvement in the city's political and cultural life African slaves were first imported into the state of Louisiana then a French colony after Indian slavery was abolished in 1719 By 1724 colonial administrators had finished compiling the Code Noir a document outlining the mutual rights and obligations of Louisiana's masters and slaves By Bill Rushton's first book on the French speaking Cajuns of South Louisiana will be issued this fall by Farrar Straus and Giroux comparison to conditions in Anglo-American colonial areas the results of the Code Noir were relatively progressive All slaves were required to be baptized in the Catholic Church establishing common cultural ties between blacks and whites in Louisiana that were closer than those anywhere else in the South ties that were preserved through the Civil War until separate black Catholic parishes began to be formed with the consent of the Archbishop of New Orleans in 1897 Colonial era slaves were permitted to retain a good many of their own cultural traditions as well and in New Orleans they were allowed Sunday afternoons off to gather in what was then called Congo Square to dance the bamboula to their own music forming a unique milieu which helps explain why jazz originated here rather than in say Savannah or Charleston      Historic Lee County Pamela Sustar, 2008 An illustrated history of Fort Myers and Lee County Florida paired with histories of the local companies      Catalog of Copyright Entries. Harris,2024-11-05 21 Defining Political Speeches From Presidents and Political Figures That United America in Uncertain Times The Missing Center is a message from the younger generation and reminds us that shared aspirations and goals have solved America s greatest challenges and are at the heart of our greatest accomplishments to come In American politics today there is a critical problem partisanship While a two party political system has been a hallmark of the American government since the founding of our democracy the extreme partisan politics in the 21st century is new In a quest to find a path forward The Missing Center showcases the transformative results that can happen when leaders govern from the center to unite inspire and solve complex problems We do not need to go back to the days of the Founding Fathers and only have to look at the recent past to find ideas that put the American people first By examining speeches from presidents and leaders of both parties we see how governing from the middle is the model that yields the best outcomes With defining political speeches from across the aisle from notable presidents and politicians alike The Missing Center sheds light on how governing from the center and coming to compromise is the most effective pathway forward In addition to commentary and context by the author this important book includes speeches by leaders across the aisle including Joe Biden Donald Trump Barack Obama George W Bush Hillary Clinton Elizabeth Warren And More The author Noah Harris currently age sixteen served as an intern for two years in the United States House of Representatives At his age this experience creates unique insight into the issues of the day including how government is viewed by the next generation of voters and how to create a better future
