Fabian Pamphlet ,1991 South Africa Martin Plaut,1991 This pamphlet is the first Fabian contribution to the debate on how Britain should respond to the dramatic recent changes in South Africa South Africa today is a land of extraordinary contrasts Many white South Africans speak as if the new South Africa promised by FW de Klerk had already arrived Black South Africans still without a vote and facing unequal opportunities see things very differently Many obstacles need to be overcome if the legacy of apartheid is to be buried Martin Plaut looks at the parties to the negotiation and the chances of success He argues that both the government and the ANC have strong political and economic reasons for seeking a settlement and so the prospects are brighter than they appear The time is ripe to consider how Britain and the international community can help build a post apartheid South Africa The political fragility of any settlement means that South Africa will require economic assistance to which it would not be entitled if normal aid criteria were applied Page 4 of cover South Africa, Perspectives on Development ,1994 Annual Report - Fabian Society Fabian Society (Great Britain),1991
