South Carolina Album 1936 1948:

South Carolina and the New Deal J. I. Hayes, 2001 JACK IRBY HAYES JR revisits the South Carolina of the 1930s to determine the impact of federal programs on the state's economy politics culture and citizenry He traces the waxing and waning of support for programs such as Works Progress Administration WPA Civilian Conservation Corps CCC and the Federal Emergency Relief Administration FERA and concludes that the modernization of South Carolina would have been delayed without their intervention Suggesting that the New Deal hastened the end of one party political domination Hayes proposes that it also initiated a new era of modernized agriculture and banking practices rural electrical service labor restrictions relief programs and cultural resurgence Hayes finds that Franklin Delano Roosevelt's initiatives enjoyed widespread support among South Carolinians He documents the welcoming of agricultural and erosion controls welfare relief child labor laws minimum wage requirements public construction state parks and massive hydroelectric projects He also credits the New Deal with sparking an intellectual reawakening and a restoration of faith in capitalism democracy and progress But Hayes demonstrates that

South Carolina Women Marjorie Julian Spruill, Valinda W. Littlefield, Joan Marie Johnson, 2009-05-01 Volume Two The biographical essays in this volume provide new insights into the various ways that South Carolina women asserted themselves in their state and illuminate the tension between tradition and change that defined the South from the Civil War through the Progressive Era As old rules including gender conventions that severely constrained southern women were dramatically bent if not broken these women carved out new roles for themselves and others The volume begins with a profile of Laura Towne and Ellen Murray who founded the Penn School on St Helena Island for former slaves Subsequent essays look at such women as the five Rollin sisters members of a prominent black family who became passionate advocates for women's rights during Reconstruction writer Josephine Pinckney who helped preserve African American spirituals and explored conflicts between the New and Old South in her essays and novels and Dr Matilda Evans the first African American woman licensed to practice medicine in the state Intractable racial attitudes often caused women to follow separate but parallel paths as with Louisa B Poppenheim and Marion B Wilkinson Poppenheim who was white and Wilkinson who was black were both driving forces in the women's club movement Both saw clubs as a way not only to help women and children but also to showcase these positive changes to the wider nation Yet the two women worked separately as did the white and black state federations of women's clubs Often mixing deference with daring these women helped shape their society through such avenues as education religion politics community organizing history the arts science and medicine Women in the mid and late twentieth century would build on their accomplishments

New Deal Art in Arizona Betsy Fahlman, 2009-11-15. Arizona's art history is emblematic of the story of the modern West and few periods in that history were more significant than the era of the New Deal. From Dorothea Lange and Ansel Adams to painters and muralists including Native American Gerald Nailor, the artists working in Arizona under New Deal programs were a notable group whose art served a distinctly public purpose. Their photography, paintings, and sculptures remain significant exemplars of federal art patronage and offer telling lessons positioned at the intersection of community history and culture. Art is a powerful instrument of historical record and cultural construction, and many of the issues captured by the Farm Security Administration photographers remain significant issues today: migratory labor, the economic volatility of the mining industry, tourism, and water usage. Art tells important stories too, including the work of Japanese American photographer Toyo Miyatake in Arizona's internment camps, murals by Native American artist Gerald Nailor for the Navajo Nation Council Chamber in Window Rock, and African American themes at Fort Huachuca. Illustrated with 100 black and white photographs and covering a wide range of both media and themes, this fascinating and accessible volume reclaims a richly textured story of Arizona history with potent lessons for today.

The Playing Grounds of College Football Mark Pollak, 2018-12-12. College football teams today play for tens of thousands of fans in palatial stadiums that rival those of pro teams. But most started out in humbler venues, from baseball parks to fairgrounds to cow pastures. This comprehensive guide traces the long and diverse history of playing grounds for more than 1000 varsity football schools, including bowl-eligible teams as well as those in other divisions. The Charleston Renaissance Martha R. Severens, 1998. The Charleston Renaissance chronicles a dynamic period of Southern history, detailing the artistic legacy of native and national artists whose collective image-making led to Charleston's transformation from a faded Southern capital to a premier tourist destination. Martha Severens, as art historian, curator, and former Charleston resident, introduces readers to the city's traditions and lore and delineates their impact on the art of the day. Through her examination of the major local figures of the period—Alfred Hurry, Alice Ravenel Huger Smith, Anna Heyward Taylor, and Verner—as well as the impressive list of visiting artists including Birge Harrison, Childe Hassam, Edward Hopper, Lilla Cabot Perry, and many more, Severens expands upon the existing scholarship, adding new depth and dimension to both the period and the place. Ultimately, by connecting the artistic advances in Charleston to the greater American art scene, Severens brings clarity to the ancient, beautiful city's vital role in Southern art and American
