Southeast Asian Special Forces:

South-East Asian Special Forces Kenneth Conboy, 2012-05-20 Elite units have long been prominent in the armies of South East Asia and given the turmoil in the region after the 1960s these forces have had ample opportunity to be tested in combat Acknowledged expert on South East Asia Ken Conboy outlines the history organization and insignia of Vietnamese Cambodian Indonesian Malaysian and various other South East Asian special forces from their origins up until the late 80s covering such groups as the Vietnamese Luc Luong Dac Biet Special Forces and Lien Doi Ngoui Nhia underwater demolition team and the Cambodian Airborne Brigade Group Australia-New Zealand & Southeast Asia Relations ISEAS, 2003-08-01 This timely report by two specialists on Asia Pacific affairs at the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies ISEAS in Singapore surveys the history of links between Australia New Zealand and ASEAN assesses the current state of relations between the two regions and recommends ways to strengthen ties With the leaders of ANZ and Southeast Asia to meet at the ASEAN summit in Laos on 30 November 2004 for the first time since 1977 ISEAS commissioned the report to find out whether there was a firm basis for reinvigorating the ANZ Southeast Asia relationship and if so to make proposals that might interest policy makers This report finds that despite past differences and periodic setbacks the relationship between ANZ and Southeast Asia has become increasingly solid and multi faceted as successive Australian New Zealand and Southeast Asian governments have taken steps since the early 1970s to facilitate mutual ties and interaction in a wide range of areas What is most striking is that in recent years much of the real substance in the relationship between ANZ and Southeast Asia has developed without the direct assistance or guidance of governments as private business education and travel have mushroomed From being largely government fostered in the 1970s the links between the two regions have become more broadly based and oriented towards closer contacts between people This is the soft power of the new relationship between ANZ and Southeast Asia
