The Power of Parent-Child Conversations Jeff Zwiers, 2021-06-15. This book focuses on how parents and other caregivers can have richer and more fruitful conversations with their children. Parents will be able to use the ideas in this book to improve conversations with their children in ways that help them more effectively learn in school, develop stronger and more lasting relationships in and out of school, and increase their critical thinking and problem-solving abilities. Some children are more prepared for school than others. Much of this preparation comes from the types of conversations that children have and listen to at home. Many children need more practice in developing and using key conversation skills that are expected in school and life. They need more practice co-constructing ideas with other people face to face, and they need more practice engaging in respectful collaboration and argumentation. This book helps parents to provide such practice.

The Person Dan P. McAdams, 2008-12-22. Drawing on cutting-edge scientific research, classic personality theories, and stirring examples from biography and literature, The Person presents a lively and integrative introduction to the science of personality psychology. Author Dan McAdams organizes the field according to a broad conceptual perspective that has emerged in personality psychology over the past 10 years. According to this perspective, personality is made up of three levels of psychological individuality: dispositional traits, characteristic adaptations such as motives and goals, and integrative life stories. Traits, adaptations, and stories comprise the three most recognizable variations on psychological human nature, grounded in the human evolutionary heritage and situated in cultural and historical context. The fifth edition of this beautifully written text expands and updates research on the neuroscience of personality traits and introduces new material on personality disorders, evolution, and religion, attachment in adulthood, continuity and change in personality over the life course, and the development of narrative identity.
