Transconstitutionalism Marcelo Neves, 2013-05-01 Transconstitutionalism is a concept used to describe what happens to constitutional law when it is emancipated from the state in which can be found the origins of constitutional law Transconstitutionalism does not exist because a multitude of new constitutions have appeared but because other legal orders are now implicated in resolving basic constitutional problems A transconstitutional problem entails a constitutional issue whose solution may involve national international supranational and transnational courts or arbitral tribunals as well as native local legal institutions Transconstitutionalism does not take any single legal order or type of order as a starting point or ultima ratio It rejects both nation statism and internationalism supranationalism transnationalism and localism as privileged spaces for solving constitutional problems The transconstitutional model avoids the dilemma of monism versus pluralism From the standpoint of transconstitutionalism a plurality of legal orders entails a complementary and conflicting relationship between identity and alterity constitutional identity is rearticulated on the basis of alterity Rather than seeking a Herculean Constitution transconstitutionalism tackles the many headed Hydra of constitutionalism always looking for the blind spot in one legal system and reflecting it back against the many others found in the world's legal orders Media Resource Catalog from the National Audiovisual Center ,1990
