Tasks and Communicating in Language Classrooms James F. Lee, 2000 Tasks and Communicating in Language Classrooms is a significant new work in the area of classroom communication This text takes a principled approach to how one can take the basic question and answer paradigm found in many if not most language textbooks and reformulate it into interactive tasks that place communication in the hands of the student learners This text is practical in terms of task development and task based test design and development and simultaneously well grounded in theory and research Continuing in the tradition of bringing theory research and practice together into one volume Lee s work is a welcome addition to the McGraw Hill Second Language Professional Series Task-based Language Learning and Teaching Rod Ellis, 2003-04-03 This book explores the relationship between research teaching and tasks and seeks to clarify the issues raised by recent work in this field The book shows how research and task based teaching can mutually inform each other and illuminate the areas of task based course design methodology and assessment The author brings an accessible style and broad scope to an area of contemporary importance to both SLA and language pedagogy Tasks in Second Language Learning Virginia Samuda, Martin Bygate, 2007-11-27 Tasks in Second Language Learning aims to re centre discussion of the ways in which language learning tasks can help offer a holistic approach to language learning and to explore the research implications It relates the broad educational and social science rationale for the use of tasks to the principles and practices of their classroom use The authors provide a balanced review of research as a basis for exploring a broader research agenda Throughout the book offers telling illustration of the contributions of a range of specialists in research teaching methodology and materials development and of the authors own argument Task-Based Language Learning Peter Robinson, 2011-06-13 This volume contains papers addressing issues in task based research into second language learning which are essential to informed pedagogic decision making about how best to achieve this aim These issues include research into the design characteristics of pedagogic tasks that promote the accuracy fluency and complexity of learner language the role of individual differences in the motivational and other cognitive variables that demands made by pedagogic tasks draw on the extent to which tasks and teacher interventions during task performance promote the quantity and quality of interaction that facilitate L2 learning and the generalizability of task based research in laboratory contexts to classroom settings
