The Guide To English Language Teaching Yearbook 2006:

The Changing Faces of Ireland Merike Darmody, Naomi Tyrrell, Steve Song, 2011-10-22 Before the economic boom of the 1990s Ireland was known as a nation of emigrants. The past fifteen years however have seen the transformation of Ireland from a country of net emigration to one of net immigration on a scale and at a pace unprecedented in comparative context. As a result Irish society has become more diverse in terms of nationality, language, ethnicity and religious affiliation and these changes are now clearly reflected in the composition of both primary and secondary schools, presenting these with challenges as well as opportunities. Despite the increased number of ethnically diverse immigrant children and young people in the Ireland currently there is a paucity of information about aspects of their lives in Ireland. This book is aimed at contributing to this gap in knowledge. This edited collection will be of interest to researchers in the fields of migration studies, childhood studies, education studies, human geography, sociology, applied social studies, social work, health studies and psychology. It will also be a useful resource to educators, social workers, youth workers and community members working with or preparing to work with children with immigrant and ethnic minority backgrounds in Ireland.

Digital Media, Youth, and Credibility Miriam J. Metzger, Andrew J. Flanagin, 2008 The difficulties in determining the quality of information on the Internet, in particular the implications of wide access and questionable credibility for youth and learning. Today we have access to an almost inconceivably vast amount of information from sources that are increasingly portable, accessible and interactive. The Internet and the explosion of digital media content have made more information available from more sources to more people than at any other time in human history. This brings an infinite number of opportunities for learning, social connection and entertainment. But at the same time the origin of information, its quality and its veracity are often difficult to assess. This volume addresses the issue of credibility, the objective and subjective components that make information believable in the contemporary media environment. The contributors look particularly at youth audiences and experiences, considering the implications of wide access and the questionable credibility of information for youth and learning. They discuss such topics as the credibility of health information online, how to teach credibility assessment and public policy solutions. Much research has been done on credibility and new media but little of it focuses on users younger than college students. Digital Media, Youth and Credibility fills this gap in the literature. Contributors: Matthew S. Eastin, Gunther Eysenbach, Brian Hilligoss, Frances Jacobson, Harris R. David, Lankes Soo Young, Rieh S. Shyam, Sundar, Fred W. Weingarten.
