Sourcebook Of Adult Assessment Strategies:

Sourcebook of Adult Assessment Strategies Nicola S. Schutte, John M. Malouff, 2013-11-21 Assessment is a topic that is central to psychology. In the case of clinical psychology, assessment of individual functioning is of keen interest to individuals involved in clinical practice as well as research. Understanding the multiple domains of functioning, evaluating characteristics of individuals in relation to others, normative assessment as well as in relation to themselves, ipsative assessment and charting progress or change over time all require well developed assessment tools and methods. In light of the importance of the topic, books, journals, and monographs continue to emerge in large numbers to present, address, and evaluate diverse measures. Keeping informed about measures, identifying the measures in use, and obtaining the necessary information for their interpretation make the task of Sisyphus look like a vacation. In this book, the editors provide information that eases the task remarkably. The overriding goal of this book is to provide concise, useful, and essential information about measures of adult functioning. To that end, this is a sourcebook, a format that is particularly noteworthy. The measures are presented and organized according to diagnostic categories as derived from the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders DSM IV. The categories are broad, e.g., substance-related disorders, anxiety disorders, mood disorders, schizophrenia, and related disorders. In recognition that those who develop measures and those who use them in clinical research or practice usually do not have narrowly defined diagnostic entities in mind.

Measures for Clinical Practice and Research, Volume 1 Kevin Corcoran, Joel Fischer, 2013-05-01 One of the key challenges of all types of practice and research is finding a way to measure the problem. This seminal 2-volume book contains hundreds of the most useful measurement tools for use in clinical practice and in research. All measures are critiqued by the editors who provide guidance on how to select and score them, and the actual measures are wholly reproduced. This first volume, focusing on measures for use with couples, families, and children, includes an introduction to the basic principles of measurement, an overview of different types of measures, and an overview of the Rapid Assessment Inventories included herein. Volume I also contains descriptions and reviews of each instrument as well as information on how they were selected and how to administer and score them. This book is designed as the definitive reference volume on assessment measures for both practice and research in clinical mental health. This fifth edition of Corcoran and Fischer's Measures for Clinical Practice and Research is updated with a new preface, new scales, and updated information for existing instruments, expanding and cementing its utility for members of all the helping professions, including psychology, social work, psychiatry, counseling, nursing, and medicine. Alone or as a set, these classic compendiums are powerful tools that clinicians and researchers alike will find an invaluable addition to or update of their libraries.
