South Africa In Transition The Misunderstood Miracle:

South Africa in Transition Adrian Guelke, 1999 South Africa's transition has surprised many by the speed of the change from National Party government to one dominated by the ANC. This study argues that the widely held view of the emergence of the new South Africa as a modern miracle has to be viewed with extreme caution. The Military in the Making of Modern South Africa Annette Seegers, 1996 Providing histories of the military and the police in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries including first hand accounts from retired officers and state employees this book contains much original thinking and analysis and shows the South African state evolving from white minority rule to multi racial democracy and the role of the military in that process. South Africa in transition, 1999 Twilight People David Houze, 2006-05-25 David Houze was twenty six and living in a single room occupancy hotel in Atlanta when he discovered that three little girls in an old photo he'd seen years earlier were actually his sisters. The girls had been left behind in South Africa when Houze and his mother fled the country in 1966 at the height of apartheid to start a new life in Meridian Mississippi with Houze's American father. This revelation triggers a journey of self discovery and reconnection that ranges from the shores of South Africa to the dirt roads of Mississippi and back. Gripping vivid and poignant this deeply personal narrative uses the unraveling mystery of Houze's family and his quest for identity as a prism through which to view the tumultuous events of the civil rights movement in Mississippi and the rise and fall of apartheid in South Africa. Twilight People is a stirring memoir that grapples with issues of family love abandonment and ultimately forgiveness and reconciliation. It is also a spellbinding detective story steeped in racial politics and the troubled history of two continents of one man's search for the truth behind the enigmas of his and his mother's lives. The Territorial Management of Ethnic Conflict John Coakley, 2004-08-02 The object of this book is to look at the manner in which states attempt to cope with ethnic conflict through territorial approaches. This revised edition has new chapters covering Northern Ireland South Africa and Yugoslavia. Democracy in the Developing World Jeffrey Haynes, 2013-04-23 Until the late 1980s there were very few democratically elected governments in the developing world. These areas were characterized by a range of authoritarian regimes from military administrations to one party dictatorships. Over the past decade however the situation has altered significantly and an increasing number of developing countries have made the transition to democracy. For some this process of building and consolidating democracy has been relatively easy while for others it has proved more complex and harder to sustain. In this important new textbook Jeff Haynes seeks to explain why these differences occur. Adopting a broadly comparative approach he begins by examining the theories and practice of democratic transition and consolidation in the new democracies of Africa Asia Latin America and the Middle East. Haynes argues persuasively that a country's ability to consolidate democracy depends not only on the interaction of structural and agency factors but also on a variety of specific domestic and international concerns which may help or hinder democratic progress. Using a wide range of case studies to illustrate his argument Haynes provides an accessible and comprehensive analysis of the processes and problems of democratic consolidation in developing nations This is an important textbook that will be invaluable to students in a variety of areas from politics and comparative politics to development studies and history

Thabo Mbeki and the Battle for the Soul of the ANC William Mervin Gumede, 2013-02-07 As a spokesman for a country a continent and the developing world Thabo Mbeki played a crucial role in world politics but to many people he remained an enigma throughout his presidency Is this simply because he was a secretive man or were there complicated political factors at play Who was the real Mbeki In this book multiple award winning journalist William Mervin Gumede chronicles Mbeki's spectacular rise to dominate Africa's oldest liberation movement He explores the complex position that Mbeki occupied following in Nelson Mandela's footsteps holding together an alliance with deep ideological differences and ruling an intensely divided country Revealing the political and personal tensions behind the scenes Gumede explains how Mbeki sought to mould the ANC into his image through tight control and exposes the intrigues behind the battle for succession Covering Mbeki's attempts to modernise the economy and kick start an African Renaissance and investigating his controversial stance on issues from AIDS to Zimbabwe the book offers invaluable insights into the arcane machinations behind political decisions that touch the lives of millions every day

Losing the Plot Leon de Kock, 2016-09-01 In Losing the Plot well known scholar and writer Leon de Kock offers a lively and wide ranging analysis of postapartheid South African writing which he contends has morphed into a far more flexible and multifaceted entity than its predecessor If postapartheid literature's founding moment was the transition to democracy writing over the ensuing years has viewed the Mandelaplan project with increasing doubt Instead authors from all quarters are seen to be reporting in different ways and from divergent points of view on what is perceived to be a pathological public sphere in which the plot the mapping and making of social betterment appears to have been lost The compulsion to detect forensically the actual causes of such loss of direction has resulted in the prominence of creative nonfiction A significant adjunct in the rise of this is the new media which sets up a wounded space within which a cult of commiseration compulsively and repeatedly plays out the facts of the day on people's screens This De Kock argues is reproduced in much postapartheid writing And although fictional forms persist in genres such as crime fiction with their tendency to overplot more serious fiction underplots yielding to the imprint of real conditions to determine the narrative construction

Post-Conflict Rebuilding and International Law Ray Murphy, 2017-03-02 This volume presents the research analysis of a range of scholars and experts on post conflict peacebuilding and international law from a variety of perspectives and missions The selected essays show that peacebuilding like the concept of peacekeeping is not specifically provided for in the UN Charter They also demonstrate that the record of peacebuilding like that of peacekeeping is varied and while both concepts are intrinsically linked neither lends itself to precise definition The essays consider the historical approaches to peacebuilding such as the role played by the UN in the Congo in the early 1960s and the work of the United States and its allies in rebuilding Germany and Japan in the aftermath of

World War II Finally essays consider the major challenge for contemporary peacebuilding operations to make international administrations accountable and to ensure the involvement of the international community in helping rebuild communities and prevent the resurgence of violence British Contributions to International Law, 1915-2015 (Set) Jill

Blood Jonathan D. Jansen, 2009 Discusses how white South African students learn and confront their Apartheid past and explores how this knowledge transforms both the students and the author the first black dean of an historically white university The Experience of Economic Redistribution Clarence Tshitereke, 2006-10-09 This book provides an analysis of the country's political economy in transition It documents the history of the gold mining industry's involvement in shaping the political landscape of South Africa and shows the degree to which the political transition was induced to put in place a new mode of regulation for capital accumulation In the process the victims of apartheid have now become victims of democracy's neo liberalism as the government is constrained from being developmental interventionist and redistributive

Broadcasting the End of Apartheid Martha Evans, 2014-07-15 South Africa came late to television when it finally arrived in the late 1970s the rest of the world had already begun to boycott the country because of apartheid While the ruling National Party feared the integrative effects of television they did not foresee how exclusion from globally unifying broadcasts would gradually erode their power South Africa was barred from participating in some of television's greatest global attractions including sporting events such as the Olympics and contests such as Miss World With the release of Nelson Mandela from prison came a proliferation of large scale live broadcasts as the country was permitted to return to international competition and its re admittance was played out on television screens across the world These events were pivotal in shaping and consolidating the country's emerging post apartheid national identity Broadcasting the End of Apartheid assesses the socio political effects of live broadcasting on South Africa's transition to democracy Martha Evans argues that just as print media had a powerful influence on the development of Afrikaner nationalism so the liveness of television helped to consolidate the post apartheid South African national identity Political Identity and Social Change

Jamie Frueh, 2012-02-01 Political Identity and Social Change builds upon the constructivist theory of political identity to explore the social changes that accompanied the end of apartheid in South Africa To gain a better understanding of how structures of identity changed along with the rest of South Africa s institutions Frueh analyzes three social and political conflicts the Soweto uprisings of 1976 the reformist constitutional debates of 1983 1984 and post apartheid crime Analyzing these conflicts demonstrates how identity labels function as structures of social discourse how social activity is organized through these structures and how both the labels and their power have changed during the course of South Africa s transition In this way the book contributes not only to the study of South African society but also provides lessons about the relationship between identity and social change Protecting Human Rights and Building Peace in Post-Violence Societies

Nasia Hadjigeorgiou, 2020-02-20 This book critically examines the relationship between protecting human rights and building peace in post violence societies It explores the conditions that must be present and strategies that should be adopted for the former to contribute to the latter The author argues that human rights can aid peacebuilding efforts by helping victims of past violence to articulate their grievance and by encouraging the state to respond to and provide them with a meaningful remedy This usually happens either through a process of adjudication whereby human rights can offer guidance to the judiciary as to the best way to address such grievances or through the passing and implementation of human rights laws and policies that seek to promote peace However this positive relationship between human rights and peace is both qualified and context specific Through an interdisciplinary and comparative analysis of four case studies the book identifies the conditions that can support the effective use of human rights as peacebuilding tools Developing these the book recommends a series of strategies that peacebuilders should adopt and rely on Winner of the Constantinos Emilianides Award in Law for 2020 joint conferment Contemporary Peace Making J. Darby, R. Mac Ginty, Roger Mac Ginty, 2002-12-19

Contemporary Peace Making draws on recent experience to identify and explore the essential components of peace processes Each chapter examines a different element in recent peace processes The collection is organized around five main themes planning for peace during periods of violence the process of negotiations including pre negotiation the effects of violence on peace processes peace accords constitutional and political options and securing the settlement and building the peace

Democratizing the Hegemonic State Ilan Peleg, 2007-07-23 This book provides a new comprehensive analytical framework for the examination of majority minority relations in deeply divided societies Hegemonic states in which one ethnic group completely dominates all others will continue to face enormous pressures to transform because they are out of step with the new emerging global governing code that emphasizes democracy and equal rights Refusal to change would lead such states to lose international legitimacy and face increasing civil strife instability and violence Through systematic theoretical analysis and careful empirical study of 14 key cases Peleg examines the options open to polities with diverse populations Challenging the conventional wisdom of many liberal democrats Peleg maintains that the preferred solution for a traditional hegemonic polity is not merely to grant equal rights to individuals but also to incorporate significant group rights via mega constitutional transformation Transitions to Democracy Kathryn Stoner, Michael McFaul, 2013-04-15 What issues and consequences surround the fall of a government what type of regime replaces it and to what extent are these efforts successful This title provides a collection of writings by scholars and practitioners that are organized into three parts successful transitions incremental transitions and failed transitions The End of the Cold War and The Third World Artemy Kalinovsky, Sergey Radchenko, 2011-04-19 This book brings together recent research on the end of the Cold War in the Third World and engages with ongoing debates about regional conflicts the role of great powers in the developing world and the role of international actors in conflict resolution Most of the recent scholarship on the end of the Cold War has focused on Europe or bilateral US Soviet relations By contrast relatively little has been written on the end of the Cold War in the Third World in Asia Africa and Latin America How did the great transformation of the world in the late 1980s affect regional conflicts and client relationships Who won and who lost in the Third World and why do so many Cold War era problems remain unresolved This book brings to light for the first time evidence from newly declassified archives in Russia the United States Eastern Europe as well as from private collections recent memoirs and interviews with key participants It goes further than anything published so far in systematically explaining both from the perspectives of the superpowers and the Third World countries what the end of bipolarity meant not only for the underdeveloped periphery so long enmeshed in ideological socio political and military conflicts sponsored by Washington Moscow or Beijing but also for the broader patterns of international relations This book will be of much interest to students of the Cold War war and conflict studies third world and development studies international history and IR in general Building the Constitution James Fowkes, 2016-12-15 A revisionary account of the South African Constitutional Court its working method and the neglected political underpinnings of its success
