Wines of the New South Africa Tim James, 2013-07-18 Sought after by European aristocrats and a favorite of Napoleon Bonaparte the sweet wines of Constantia in the Cape Colony were considered to be among the world's best during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries During the first democratic elections in 1994 South Africa began to re-emerge onto the international wine scene Tim James an expert on South African wines takes the reader on an information-packed tour of the region showing us how and why the unique combination of terroir and climate together with dramatic improvements in winemaking techniques result in wines that are once again winning accolades James describes important grape varieties and wine styles from delicate sparkling to rich fortified and everything in between including the varietal blends that produce some of the finest Cape wines Anchoring his narrative in a rich historical context James discusses all the major wine regions from Cederberg to Walker Bay complete with profiles of more than 150 of the country's finest producers The Wine

Industry of South Africa. A Sector Report Cyril Alias, 2015-05-07 Seminar paper from the year 2005 in the subject Business economics General grade 1.0 University of Applied Sciences Bielefeld course Internationale Wirtschaftsbeziehungen language English abstract Although South Africa was not very famous for its beverages esp its wines for long times and has gained fame in recent years only the heritage of its vine growing culture goes back to the mid of the 17th century European settlers predominantly from The Netherlands started to plant first seedlings in the Cape region It was Jan van Riebeeck founder of the Cape colony who brought the seedlings along from Europe in 1655 Some four years later the first South African wine was ready to be drunk However as the Dutch were not too experienced with viticulture real development took place only when French Huguenots settled in that region in the end of the 17th century In the mid of the 18th and the beginning of the 19th century these wines e.g. the very sweet Constantia wines were very popular all around Europe particularly in the royal houses But afterwards the demand shrank to nearly zero In 1973 viticulture was resumed in the African country However the wines were boycotted by the rest of the world due to the Apartheid problems within the country Only from 1990 onwards South African wine industry is recovering and nowadays belongs to the so-called New World wines which also include products from Chile Argentina Australia New Zealand and the United States California Race, Taste

Wines of South Africa Pierre Dubois,2020-02-15 The roots of the South African wine industry can be traced back to the exploration of the Dutch East India Company when a supply station was established in Cape Town Cape Town was then only a stop for ships and crew to pick up fresh produce during their journey along the spice route to India The wine industry in South Africa has grown immensely since then as winemakers experiment and plant a variety of grapes to try and find the best grapes for their unique Terroir South Africa does not have a specialty cultivar yet but contenders include Pinotage Cabernet Sauvignon Sauvignon Blanc and Chardonnay

The South African Wine Dictionary Eric H. Bolsmann,1977

The Wines of South Africa James Seely,1997 In the 19th century the sweet white wines of Constantia were rated among the finest in the world until as demand went up quality went down and the market with it so that Constantia became a memory The growers and shippers concentrated on fortified wines in imitation of sherry and port but now the term South African sherry may no longer be used in Europe and that trade too has vanished And in the recent past South African wines were shunned on account of apartheid
