The Old English Version of Bede's Ecclesiastical History of the English

Zöopedagogies Bonnie J. Erwin, 2018-12-07

The human protagonists of medieval romance are works in progress. They are learners taught by an unexpected set of teachers: non-human animals including horses, hawks, lions, and the various quarry of the hunt. These creature-teachers show humans how to be more perfectly human: how to love, fight, survive, and live according to medieval culture's highest ideals. Zöopedagogies explores the pedagogical role of animals in medieval romance, a genre whose fantastical elements enable animal characters to behave in ways inspired by but not limited to their real-world actions. Situated at the intersection of animal studies and medieval studies, Zöopedagogies claims medieval roots for posthumanism by telling a new story about the role of animals in constructing Western culture. Bonnie Erwin brings together a diverse array of texts including chivalric romances like Sir Gawain and the Green Knight and popular romances like Bevis of Hampton and Richard Coeur de Lion. She puts these into conversation with medieval texts on natural science, horsemanship, hawking, and hunting that inform the representation of creatures who teach. In so doing, she reveals a rich and nuanced sense of animals as participants in interspecies collaborative culture-making.

Catalogue of Sources for a Linguistic Atlas of Early Medieval English Margaret Laing, 1993. This catalogue is a state-of-the-knowledge list of the English written between c. 1150 and 1300, whether later versions of Old English texts or original early Middle English. With over 500 entries relating to manuscripts containing writing in English, it describes in detail literary material both prose and verse, documentary texts and glosses. The catalogue draws together an extensive body of information only available up to now from widely scattered sources. As well as being listed by their repositories, the manuscripts are also separately indexed by text. Information is provided on dates, hands, manuscript associations, and language. Also given are references to editions and secondary literature.

Disembodied Heads in Medieval and Early Modern Culture Barbara Baert, Anita Traninger, Catrien Santing, 2013-07-18. Do heads excite a desire to chop them off, a desire to decapitate and take a human life, as anthropologists have suggested? The contributors to this book are fascinated by disembodied heads which are pursued in their many medieval and early modern disguises and representations, including the metaphorical. They challenge the question why, in medieval and early modern cultures, the head was usually considered the most important part of the body, a primacy only contested by the heart for religious reasons. Carefully mapping beliefs, mythologies, and traditions concerning the head, the result is an attempt to establish a cultural anatomy of the head which is relevant for cultural historians, art historians, and students of the philosophy, art, and sciences of the premodern period. Contributors include Barbara Baert, Esther Cohen, Mateusz Kapustka, Arjan R. de Kooijen, Robert Mills, Marina Montesano, Scott B. Montgomery, Catrien Santing, Jetze Touber, and Bert Watteuw.

The Oxford History of Life Writing Volume 1 The Middle Ages explores the richness and variety of life writing from late Antiquity to the threshold of the Renaissance During the Middle Ages writers from Bede to Chaucer were thinking about life and experimenting with ways to translate lives their own and others into literature Their subjects included career religious saints celebrities visionaries pilgrims princes philosophers poets and even a few ordinary people They relay life stories not only in chronological narratives but also in debates dialogues visions and letters Many medieval biographers relied on the reader s trust in their authority but some espoused standards of evidence that seem distinctly modern drawing on reliable written sources interviewing eyewitnesses and cross checking their facts wherever possible Others still professed allegiance to evidence but nonetheless freely embellished and invented not only events and dialogue but the sources to support them The first book devoted to life writing in medieval England The Oxford History of Life Writing Volume 1 The Middle Ages covers major life stories in Old and Middle English Latin and French along with such Continental classics as the letters of Abelard and Heloise and the autobiographical Vision of Christine de Pizan In addition to the life stories of historical figures it treats accounts of fictional heroes from Beowulf to King Arthur to Queen Katherine of Alexandria which show medieval authors experimenting with adapting and expanding the conventions of life writing Though Medieval life writings can be challenging to read we encounter in them the antecedents of many of our own diverse biographical forms tabloid lives literary lives brief lives revisionist lives lives of
