The Making of Lay Religion in Southern France, c. 1000-1350 John H. Arnold,2024-03-20 What was Christianity like for ordinary people between the turn of the millennium and the coming of the Black Death What changed and what continued in their experiences habits feelings hopes and fears How did they know themselves to be Christians and indeed to be good Christians This book answers those questions through a focus on one specific region southern France across a particularly fraught period of history one beset by the changes wrought by the Gregorian reforms the spectre of heresy the violence of crusade the coming of inquisition and the pastoral revolution associated with the Fourth Lateran Council 1215 Using an array of different historical documents John H Arnold explores the material contexts of Christian worship from the eleventh through to the fourteenth centuries the shifting episcopal expectations of the ordinary laity the changes wrought through wider socioeconomic developments and periods of sharp inflection brought by the Albigensian crusade and its aftermath Throughout the book explores the complex spectrum of lay piety finding enthusiasms and doubts faith and scepticism agency and negotiation It explores not just developments in the content of faith for the laity but the very dynamics of belief as a lived experience We are shown how across these key centuries Christianity developed in its external practices but also via inculcating a more interiorized and affective mode of belief and thus it is argued it can be said to have become truly a religion a structured demanding and rewarding faith for the many and not just the few

Southern France Jeffrey J. Clarke,Center of Military History, A Walking Tour in Southern France Ezra Pound,1992 Rummaging through his papers in 1958 Ezra Pound came across a cache of notebooks dating back to the summer of 1912 when as a young man he had walked the troubadour landscape of southern France Pound had been fascinated with the poetry of medieval Provence since his college days His experiments with the complex lyric forms of Arnaut Daniel Bertran de Born and others were included in his earliest books of poems his scholarly pursuits in the field found their way into The Spirit of Romance 1910 and the troubadour mystique was to become a resonant motif of the Cantos In the course of transcribing and emending the text of Walking Tour 1912 editor Richard Sieburth retraced Pound s footsteps along the roads to the troubadour castles What this peripatetic editing process revealed he writes was a remarkably readable account of a journey in search of the vanished voices of Provence that at the same time chronicled Pound s gradual discovery of himself as a modernist poet
