Anthropology and Colonialism in Asia Jan van Bremen, Akitoshi Shimizu, 2013-03-07 For a time it was almost a cliché to say that anthropology was a handmaiden of colonialism by which was usually meant Western colonialism And this insinuation was assumed to somehow weaken the theoretical claims of anthropology and its fieldwork achievements What this collection demonstrates is that colonialism was not only a Western phenomenon but Eastern as well And that Japanese or Chinese anthropologists were also engaged in studying subject peoples But wherever they were and whoever they were anthropologists always had a complex and problematic relationship with the colonial state The latter saw some anthropologists sympathy for the natives as a threat while on the other hand anthropological knowledge was used for the training of colonial officials The impact of the colonial situation on the formation of anthropological theories is an important if not easily answered question and the comparison of experiences in Asia offered in this book further helps to illuminate this complex relationship

The Cross and the Rising Sun A. Hamish Ion, 2009-09-21 The influx of Protestant missionaries from Britain to Japan Korea and Taiwan was an integral part of the British presence in East Asia from 1865 to 1945 Ion draws on both British and Japanese sources to examine the life work and attitudes of the British missionaries women and men who ventured far from their homeland to preach the gospel He explores the role played by British Protestants as both Christian missionaries and informal ambassadors of their own country and civilization Through their educational social and medical work the missionaries helped introduce Western ideas and social pursuits which in turn affected different facets of society and culture in Japan Korea and Taiwan The study illustrates how the British missionaries intent to introduce Christianity was affected by the response of the East Asians to Western ideas In describing the high drama of the British missionary movement's pioneering days in the late nineteenth century to its persecution during the late 1930s Ion casts light on a particular yet important aspect of the changing tides of Anglo Japanese relations This book will ably complement his previous study of Canadian missionaries in East Asia during the same period Chosen as one of the 15 outstanding books of 1993 for mission studies by the International Bulletin of Missionary Research

Formations of Colonial Modernity in East Asia Tani E. Barlow, 1997 The essays in Formations of Colonial Modernity in East Asia challenge the idea that notions of modernity and colonialism are mere imports from the West and show how colonial modernity has evolved from and into unique forms throughout Asia Although the modernity of non European colonies is as indisputable as the colonial core of European modernity until recently East Asian scholarship has tried to view Asian colonialism through the paradigm of colonial India for instance failing to recognize anti imperialist nationalist impulses within differing Asian countries and regions Demonstrating an impatience with social science models of knowledge the contributors show that binary categories focused on during the Cold War are no longer central to the project of history writing By bringing together articles previously published in the journal positions east asia cultures critique editor Tani Barlow has demonstrated how scholars construct identity and history providing cultural critics with new ways to think about these concepts in the context of Asia and beyond Chapters address topics such as the making of imperial subjects in Okinawa politics and the body social in colonial Hong Kong and the discourse of decolonization and popular memory in South Korea This is an invaluable collection for students and scholars of Asian studies postcolonial studies and anthropology Contributors Charles K Armstrong Tani E Barlow Fred Y L Chiu Chungmoo Choi Alan S Christy Craig Clunas James A Fujii James L Hevia Charles Shiro Inouye Lydia H Liu Miriam Silverberg Tomiyama Ichiro Wang Hui

Rejection of Racial Equality Bill Shizuka Imamoto, 2018-06-27 Japan as an ally of Britain since the signing of the Anglo Japanese Alliance in 1902 entered the First World War at British request During the war Japan fought Germany in Asia and afforded protection to Australia After the cessation of hostilities of the Great War a peace conference was convened in Paris that commenced on 18 January 1919 and concluded on 28 April 1919 after some three and a half months of intense debate discussions and negotiations among the representatives of various participating countries Japan as a victorious ally and as one of the Five Powers of the day alongside Britain the US France and Italy participated in Paris Peace Conference In the conference Japan proposed the enshrinement of the principle of racial equality in the Covenant of the League of Nations This Racial Equality Bill despite the tireless efforts of the Japanese delegates was rejected Rejection of Racial Equality Bill contends that a number of factors converged to defeat the Japanese proposal Resolute opposition by the Prime Minister of Australia William Morris Hughes to racial equality was the single most crucial factor that led to the rejection of the Japanese proposal
