Governance and Civil Society in Myanmar Helen James, 2005-03-21 Most international attention on Myanmar has focused on the political situation where the military in power since 1962 continues to refuse to acknowledge the results of democratic elections and on related human rights issues This book by focusing on education health and environment and on the institutions which formulate and deliver policy in these fields shows how the international community can make a significant difference to strengthening Myanmar s civil society and to supporting a future democratic form of government by encouraging institutional developments in these fields Such developments in turn the author argues will re skill the younger generation promote economic development and poverty alleviation and through a participatory approach to policy making nurture the conditions from which democracy will grow The Orang Suku Laut of Riau, Indonesia Cynthia Chou, 2009-10-16 Cynthia Chou focuses upon the predicaments of the Orang Suku Laut or tribe of sea people an indigenous people of Indonesia in view of the challenges imposed upon them by the emergence of new borders on their maritime world The Influence of Domestic Interests on ASEAN politics Kathrin Prasse, 2006-09-27

Inhaltsangabe Abstract Until the 1990s the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN had a long however unsuccessful tradition of promoting regional economic development through inter governmental cooperation This changed in 1992 with the foundation of the ASEAN Free Trade Area AFTA which is regarded as ASEAN s first serious step towards regional economic integration AFTA s aim is to abolish trade barriers among the participating countries be it tariffs or non tariff barriers The member countries are therefore required to liberalize their economies through adjustments of their domestic tariff systems and through the elimination of non tariff barriers NTBs The formerly high degrees of economic protection have to be gradually reduced and ultimately abolished completely measures that the ASEAN member states were long unwilling to implement Hence ASEAN s decision to found AFTA in 1992 was very sceptically perceived by the international community Indeed the development of AFTA displays two contrary characteristics On the one hand the ASEAN members decided to accelerate the implementation of AFTA by five years and complemented it with two additional programmes the ASEAN Investment Area AIA and the ASEAN Framework Agreement on Services AFAS On the other hand the institutional design of AFTA provides the member countries with a high degree of flexibility to prolong or delay the process of implementation and re negotiate commitments already made Two conclusions can be drawn from the above stated developments On the hand the signing of the AFTA framework in 1992 clearly indicates a major shift in the member states attitude towards regional economic integration Moreover the initially quick implementation of the original agreement as well as its acceleration by five years and the inclusion of those potentially contentious issue areas namely trade in unprocessed agricultural products and in services which the member countries had excluded from the original AFTA framework underline this shifting attitude towards regional economic integration On the other hand some member states delayed the implementation of tariff reductions and the negotiation of sensitive products indicating that they were not equally committed to the process of implementation These conclusions lead to the two research questions that this thesis answers Firstly why did the Southeast Asian states change their preferences towards regional A Generation Later James F. Eder, 1999-09-01 A Generation Later moves beyond analytical models of rural change that focus on the peasant agricultural aspect of rural communities and makes a convincing case for an approach that integrates farm and nonfarm occupations and does justice to the conditions of occupational multiplicity that characterize to an increasing extent many of the rural communities in Asia In this context it challenges conventional and simplistic peasant to proletarian views of change Rather than finding a dreary and dispirited landscape of sameness and hardship it offers some empirical support for amore optimistic view of the region s future one of growing household prosperity and widespread individual opportunity Wellbeing and Place Sara Fuller, 2016-02-24 The last twenty years have witnessed an important movement in the aspirations of public policy beyond meeting merely material goals towards a range of outcomes captured through the use of the term wellbeing Nonetheless the concept of wellbeing is itself ill defined a term used in multiple different contexts with different meanings and policy implications Bringing together a range of perspectives this volume examines the intersections of wellbeing and place including immediate applied policy concerns as well as more critical academic engagements Conceptualisations of place context and settings have come under critical examination and more nuanced and varied understandings are drawn out from both academic and policy related research Whilst quantitative and some policy approaches treat place as a static backdrop or context others explore the interrelationships of emotional social cultural and experiential meanings that are both shape place and are shaped in place Similarly wellbeing may be understood as a relatively stable and measurable entity or as a more situation dependent and relational effect The book is structured into two sections essays that explore the dynamics that determine wellbeing in relation to place and essays that explore contested understandings of wellbeing both empirically and theoretically
