Southern Writer In The Postmodern World:

The Southern Writer in the Postmodern World Fred C. Hobson, 1991 In The Southern Writer in the Postmodern World Fred Hobson offers a witty and engaging preliminary estimate of some of the most prominent new figures in southern fiction. Although he discovers no shortage of talent, he does find various and conflicting attitudes toward the South and the contemporary world. Especially concerned with the relationship of these new writers to their literary predecessors, he traces the continuity or lack of continuity of certain attitudes, fictional approaches, and even values that informed southern writing during its earlier flowering in the 1920s, 1930s, and 1940s. Southern Writers at Century's End Jeffrey J. Folks, James A. Perkins, 2021-12-14 Since the end of World War II, the South has experienced a greater awareness of growth and of its accompanying tensions than other regions of the United States. The rapid change that climaxed with the war in Vietnam, the Cold War, civil rights demonstrations, and Watergate has forced the traditional South to come to terms with social upheaval. As the essays collected in Southern Writers at Century's End point out, southern writing since 1975 reflects the confusion and violence that have characterized late twentieth-century public culture. These essays consider the work of twenty-one of the foremost southern writers whose most important fiction has appeared in the last quarter of this century. As the region's contemporary writers have begun to gain a wide audience, critics have begun to distinguish what Hugh Holman has called the fresh, the vital, and the new in southern literary culture. Southern Writers at Century's End is the first volume to take an extensive look at the current generation of southern writers. Authors considered include James Lee Burke, Fred Chappell, Robert Drake, Andre Dubus, Clyde Edgerton, Richard Ford, Kaye Gibbons, John Grisham, Barry Hannah, Mary Hood, Josephine Humphreys, Randall Kenan, Richard Marius, Bobbie Ann Mason, Cormac McCarthy, Tim McLaurin, T. R. Pearson, Lee Smith, Anne Tyler, Alice Walker, and James Wilcox. Southern Writers and Their Worlds Christopher Morris, Susan A. Eacker, 1998-04-01 In this brilliant collection, five historians and literary critics explore the many ways that southern writers influence and are influenced by their region. Christopher Morris examines the relationship between economic development and the humor of such Old Southwestern writers as Augustus B. Longstreet and Johnson Jones Hooper, while Susan A. Eacker explains how South Carolina author Louisa McCord came to defend slavery. Anne Goodwyn Jones offers a penetrating deconstruction of gender in the southern literary renaissance. Charles Joyner reassesses William Styron's controversial decision to write The Confessions of Nat Turner in the first person, and Bertram Wyatt Brown reveals the connection between depression and literary creativity. Presenting interdisciplinary topics within a broad chronological range, this remarkable work will be of interest to all students of southern literature and history. The Fable of the Southern Writer Lewis P. Simpson, 2003-10-14 With a breadth and depth unsurpassed by any other cultural historian of the South, Lewis Simpson examines the writing of southerners: Thomas Jefferson, John Randolph, Mark Twain, Robert Penn Warren, Allen Tate, William Faulkner, Elizabeth Madox Roberts, Arthur Crew Inman, William Styron, and Walker Percy. Simpson offers challenging essays of easy erudition blessedly free of academic jargon They do not propose to support an overall thesis but simply explore the southern writer s unique relationship with his or her region bereft of myth and tradition in the grasp of science and history Library Journal

The New Encyclopedia of Southern Culture M. Thomas Inge, Charles Reagan Wilson, 2014-02-01. Offering a comprehensive view of the South's literary landscape past and present, this volume of The New Encyclopedia of Southern Culture celebrates the region's ever flourishing literary culture and recognizes the ongoing evolution of the southern literary canon. As new writers draw upon and reshape previous traditions, southern literature has broadened and deepened its connections not just to the American literary mainstream but also to world literatures, a development thoughtfully explored in the essays here. Greatly expanding the content of the literature section in the original Encyclopedia, this volume includes 31 thematic essays addressing major genres of literature, theoretical categories such as regionalism, the southern gothic, and agrarianism, and themes in southern writing such as food, religion, and sexuality. Most striking is the fivefold increase in the number of biographical entries, which introduce southern novelists, playwrights, poets, and critics. Special attention is given to contemporary writers and other individuals who have not been widely covered in previous scholarship.

American South Peculiar Crossroads Farrell O'Gorman, 2008-01-01 In Peculiar Crossroads Farrell O Gorman explains how the radical religiosity of both Flannery O'Connor's and Walker Percy's vision made them so valuable as southern fiction writers and social critics. Via their spiritual and philosophical concerns O Gorman asserts these two unabashedly Catholic authors bequeathed a postmodern South of shopping malls and interstates imbued with as much meaning as Appomattox or Yoknapatawpha. O Gorman builds his argument with biographical, historical, literary, and theological evidence, examining the writers' work through intriguing pairings such as O'Connor's Wise Blood with Percy's The Moviegoer and O'Connor's A Good Man Is Hard to Find with Percy's Lancelot. An impeccable exercise in literary history and criticism, Peculiar Crossroads renders a genuine understanding of the Catholic sensibility of both O'Connor and Percy and their influence among contemporary southern writers.

The Postsouthern Sense of Place in Contemporary Fiction Martyn Bone, 2014-01-13 For generations southern novelists and critics have grappled with a concept that is widely seen as a trademark of their literature: a strong attachment to geography or a sense of place. In the 1930s the Agrarians accorded special meaning to rural life, particularly the farm, in their definitions of southern identity. For them the South seemed an organic and rooted region in contrast to the North, where real estate development and urban sprawl evoked a faceless, raw capitalism. By the end of the twentieth century, however, economic and social forces had converged to create a modernized South. How have writers responded to this phenomenon? Is there still a sense of place in the South, or perhaps a distinctly postsouthern sense of place? Martyn Bone innovatively draws upon postmodern thinking to consider the various perspectives that southern writers have brought to the concept of place and to look at its fate in a national and global context. He begins with a revisionist assessment of the Agrarians, who failed in their attempts to turn their proprietary ideal of the small farm into actual policy, but whose broader rural aesthetic lived on in the work of neo-Agrarian writers including William Faulkner and Eudora Welty. By the 1950s adherence to this aesthetic was causing southern writers and critics to lose sight of the social reality of a changing South. Bone turns to more recent works that do respond to the impact of capitalist spatial development on the South and on the nation generally, including that self-declared international city Atlanta. Close readings of novels by Robert Penn Warren, Walker Percy, Richard Ford, Anne Rivers Siddons, Tom Wolfe, and Toni Cade Bambara illuminate evolving ideas about capital, land, labor, and class while introducing southern literary studies into wider debates around social, cultural, and literary geography. Bone concludes his remarkably rich book by considering works of Harry Crews and Barbara Kingsolver that suggest the southern sense of place may be not only post-Agrarian or postsouthern but also transnational.

Southern Crossings Daniel Cross Turner, 2012-08-30 Daniel Cross Turner has made a key contribution to the critical study and appreciation of the diverse field of contemporary Southern poetics. Southern Crossings crosses a gulf in contemporary poetry criticism while using the idea, or ideas, many and contrary of Southernness to appraise poetries created from the profuse, tangled histories of the region. Turner's close readings are dynamic, even lyrical. He offers a new understanding of rhythm's central place in contemporary poetry while considering the work of fifteen poets Through his focus on varied yet interwoven forms of cultural memory Turner also shows that memory is not in fact pass The way we remember has as much to say about our present as our past memory is living shifting culturally formed and framed This is a valuable and important book that entwines new visions of poetic forms with forms of regional remembrance and identity Natasha Trethewey Pulitzer Prize winner and author of Native Guard Poems Offering new perspectives on a diversity of recent and still practicing southern poets from Robert Penn Warren and James Dickey to Betty Adcock Charles Wright Yusef Komunyakaa Natasha Trethewey and others this study brilliantly illustrates poetry's value as a genre well suited to investigating historical conditions and the ways in which they are culturally assimilated and remembered Daniel Cross Turner sets the stage for his wide ranging explorations with an introductory discussion of the famous Fugitive poets John Crowe Ransom Allen Tate and Donald Davidson and their vision of a constant southernness that included an emphasis on community and kinship remembrance of the Civil War and its glorified pathos of defeat and a distinctively southern white voice Combining poetic theory with memory studies he then shows how later poets with their own unique forms of cultural remembrance have reimagined and critiqued the idealized view of the South offered by the Fugitives This more recent work reflects not just trauma and nostalgia but makes equally trenchant uses of the past including historiophoty the recording of history through visual images and countermemory resistant strains of cultural memory that disrupt official historical accounts As Turner demonstrates the range of poetries produced within and about the American South from the 1950s to the present helps us to recalibrate theories of collective remembrance on regional national and even transnational levels With its array of new insights on poets of considerable reputation six of the writers discussed here have won at least one Pulitzer Prize for poetry Southern Crossings makes a signal contribution to the study of not only modern poetics and literary theory but also of the U S South and its place in the larger world Daniel Cross Turner is an assistant professor of English at Coastal Carolina University His articles which focus on regional definition in national and global contexts and on aesthetic forms potential to record historical transitions appear in edited collections as well as journals including Genre Mosaic the Southern Literary Journal the Southern Quarterly and the Mississippi Quarterly

After Southern Modernism Matthew Guinn, 2011-06-14 The literature of the contemporary South might best be understood for its discontinuity with the literary past At odds with traditions of the Southern Renaissance southern literature of today sharply refutes the Nashville Agrarians and shares few of Faulkner's and Welty's concerns about place community and history This sweeping study of the literary South's new direction focuses on nine well established writers who by breaking away from the firmly ensconced myths have emerged as an iconoclastic generation Harry Crews Dorothy Allison Bobbie Ann Mason Larry Brown Kaye Gibbons Randall Kenan Richard Ford Cormac McCarthy and Barry Hannah Resisting the modernist methods of the past they have established their own postmodern ground beyond the shadow of their predecessors This shift in authorial perspective is a significant indicator of the future of southern writing Crews's seminal role as a ground breaking poor white author Mason's and Crews's portrayals of rural life and Allison's and Brown's frank portrayals of the lower class pose a challenge to traditional depictions of the South The dissenting voices of Gibbons and Kenan who focus on gender race and sexuality create fiction that is at once identifiably southern and also distinctly subversive Gibbons's iconoclastic stance toward patriarchy like the outsider's critique of community found in Kenan's work proffers a portrait of the South unprecedented in the region's literature Ford McCarthy and Hannah each approach the South's traditional notions of history and community with new irreverence and treat familiar southern topics in a distinctly postmodern manner Whether through Ford's generic consumer landscape the haunted netherworld of McCarthy's southern novels or Hannah's riotous burlesque of the Civil War these authors assail the philosophical and cultural foundations from which the Southern Renaissance arose Challenging the conventional conceptions of the southern canon this is a provocative and innovative contribution to the region's literary study Vale of Humility George Hovis, 2007 This is an inviting look at the influence of the yeoman's small farm on six modern southern writers In a deft analysis of works by Doris Betts Reynolds Price Fred Chappell Lee Smith Clyde Edgerton and Randall Kenan Vale of Humility explores the lives of the plain folk white and black who populate the worlds of contemporary North Carolina fiction Hovis explains that a wealthy planter elite was significantly less prominent in North Carolina than in neighboring regions and as such the state's plain folk did not develop a class identity based as deeply in relation to a superior planter class Instead the identification of the yeoman's small farm rather than the plantation as necessary to the ideal life has been a distinguishing feature of the state's literature In this first full length study of North Carolina's contemporary fiction Hovis examines the work of six representative writers from the state's three geographic regions Lee Smith and Fred Chappell from the mountains Doris Betts and Clyde Edgerton from the Piedmont and Reynolds Price and Randall Kenan from the coastal plain The work of these six writers is explored within the broader southern literary tradition with attention to how they have revised such modes as pastoral family saga and southwestern humor in order to portray their own regional experiences Although these writers celebrate the egalitarianism at the heart of the yeoman ideal they also expose the forms of racism sexism and classism that have also marked the state's history A Southern Weave of Women Linda Tate, 1996 A Southern Weave of Women is one of the first sustained treatments of the generation women writers who came of age in the post World War II South as well as one of the first to situate southern literature fully within a multicultural context
