Southern Comfort A Story Of Life Love And Loss:

Southern Comfort H. Lorraine Skinner, 2004-03 The name of my book is Southern Comfort derived from the comfort of southern living It is a true story I was born in the country on a farm in Hertford NC As a black family sharecropping from farm to farm among racial epithet and hard work was a triumph that we as a family overcame The southern comfort of country living taught us how to survive under the most unethical circumstances In the early years living on the farms was awesome There was no plumbing electricity or gas The wood burning stoves kerosene lamps and out houses were a way of life for us There were large yards and open fields for us to roam and play Our only means of survival was the farmlands and we worked them to the fullest My remembrance of those days is embedded in my soul because the country living that our parents brought us through taught us how to survive in those days and prepared us for whatever the future would bestow To our parents we were ten very energetic enthusiastic vivacious children that needed their love guidance and protection We received it all The years were hard and rough but as a family we worked together and persevered Today as adults we have accomplished our own goals We have managed to keep the drugs crime and jail system out of our lives This is why I've decided to write this book because through all the sweat tears sickness and deaths we prayed and worked together and have succeeded way beyond our own expectations H Lorraine Skinner
