Tame Passions of Wilde Jeff Nunokawa, 2003 What if our strongest urges could be divested of their power to compel yet retain their power to fascinate us What if our most basic appetites could be translated from the realm of bodily necessity to the sphere of artistic freedom Jeff Nunokawa traces the variety of social pressures that inspired Oscar Wilde's lifelong effort to concoct forms of desire that thrill without menacing us as well as the alchemies by which he sought to do so Assigning Wilde a place of honor in a heady company of thinkers drawn from the ranks of philosophy sociology economics psychoanalysis and contemporary queer theory Kant Marx Simmel Weber Freud Hannah Arendt Albert O Hirschman Erving Goffman Judith Butler Eve Sedgwick and of course Michel Foucault this is the first book to recognize Wilde not only as a blatant symptom of a familiar understanding of modern sexuality but also as a grand theorist of the subject in his own right The result is a wholly original portrait of the artist as a social critic who in the midst of his humor labored to illuminate and amend the book of love

Terror and Irish Modernism Jim Hansen, 2010-07-02 Terror and Irish Modernism offers a synoptic overview of modern Irish fiction Covering more than two centuries of literary production Jim Hansen locates the root structure of modern Irish fiction in the masculine gender anxiety of one of the nineteenth century's most popular literary genres the Gothic Addressing both the decolonization of Ireland and the politics of literary form Hansen sheds new light on canonical works by Maria Edgeworth C R Maturin Oscar Wilde James Joyce and Samuel Beckett by reading them all as part of the generic tradition of the Irish Gothic He focuses in particular on how the Irish Gothic tradition translated the English Gothic's female confinement narrative into a story about confined feminized male protagonists In reading this male gender disorientation as the foundational condition of modern Irish political identity Terror and Irish Modernism provides a thoroughly new genealogy of modern Irish fiction

The

Uncensored Picture of Dorian Gray Oscar Wilde, Nicholas Frankel, 2012-08-13 Over 120 years after Oscar Wilde submitted The Picture of Dorian Gray for publication the uncensored version of his novel appears here for the first time in a paperback edition This volume restores material including instances of graphic homosexual content removed by the novel's first editor who feared it would be offensive to Victorians

Victorian Conversion Narratives and Reading Communities Emily Walker Heady, 2016-03-03 Because Victorian authors rarely discuss conversion experiences separately from the modes in which they are narrated Emily Walker Heady argues that the conversion narrative became in effect a form of literary criticism Literary conventions in turn served the reciprocal function as a means of discussing the nature of what Heady calls the heart change Heady reads canonical authors such as John Henry Newman Charles Dickens Charlotte Bront George Eliot and Oscar Wilde through a dual lens of literary history and post liberal theology As Heady shows these authors question the ability of realism to contain the emotionally freighted and often jarring plot lines that characterize conversion In so doing they explore the limits of narrative form while also shedding light on the ways in which conversion narratives address and often disrupt the reading communities in which they occur

The Fairy Tales of Oscar Wilde Dr Jarlath Killeen, 2013-04-28 Oscar Wilde's two collections of children's literature The Happy Prince and Other Stories 1888 and A House of Pomegranates 1891 have often been marginalised in critical accounts as their apparently conservative didacticism appears at odds with the characterisation of Wilde as an amoral aesthete In this the first full length study of Wilde's fairy tales for children Jarlath Killeen argues that Wilde's stories are neither uniformly conservative nor subversive but a blend of both Killeen contends that while they should be read in relation to a literary tradition of fairy tales that emerged in nineteenth century Europe Irish issues heavily influenced the work These issues were powerfully shaped by the folk Catholicism Wilde encountered in the west of Ireland By resituating the fairy tales in a complex nexus of theological political social and national concerns Killeen restores the tales to their proper place in the Wilde canon

The Literate Eye Rachel Teukolsky, 2009-07-23 In Victorian Britain authors produced a luminous and influential body of writings about the visual arts From John Ruskin's five volume celebration of J M W Turner to Walter Pater's essays on the Italian Renaissance Victorian writers disseminated a new idea in the nineteenth century that art spectatorship could provide one of the most intense and meaningful forms of human experience In The Literate Eye Rachel Teukolsky analyzes the vivid archive of Victorian art writing to reveal the key role played by nineteenth century authors in the rise of modernist aesthetics Though traditional accounts locate a break between Victorian values and the experimental styles of the twentieth century Teukolsky traces how certain art writers promoted a formalism that would come to dominate canons of twentieth century art Well known texts by Ruskin Pater and Wilde appear alongside lesser known texts drawn from the rich field of Victorian print culture including gallery reviews scientific treatises satirical cartoons and tracts on early photography Spanning the years 1840 to 1910 her argument lends a new understanding to the transition from Victorianism to modernism a period of especially lively exchange between artists and intellectuals here narrated with careful attention to the historical particularities and real events that informed British aesthetic values Lavishly illustrated and marked by meticulous research The Literate Eye offers an eloquent argument for the influence of Victorian art culture on the museum worlds of modernism in a revisionary account that ultimately relocates the notion of the modern to the heart of the nineteenth century Regard for the Other E.S. Burt, 2009-10-18 Although much has been written on autobiography the same cannot be said of autothanatography the writing of one's death This study starts from the deconstructive premise that autobiography is aporetic not or not only a matter of a subject strategizing with language to produce an exemplary identity but a matter also of its responding to an exorbitant call to write its death The I dominated representations of particular others and of the privileged other to whom a work is addressed must therefore be set against an alterity plaguing the I from within or shadowing it from without This alterity makes itself known in writing as the potential of the text to carry messages that remain secret to the confessing subject Anticipation of the potential for the confessional text to say what Augustine calls the secret I do not know the secret of death engages the autothanatographical subject in a dynamic inventive and open ended process of identification The subject presented in these texts is not one that has already evolved an interior life that it seeks to reveal to others but one that speaks to us as still in process Through its exorbitant response it gives intimations of an interiority and an ethical existence to come Baudelaire emerges as a central figure for this understanding of autobiography as autothanatography through his critique of the narcissism of a certain Rousseau his translation of De Quincey's confessions with their vertiginously ungrounded subject in construction his artistic practice of self conscious thorough going doubleness and his service to Wilde as model for an aporetic secrecy The author discusses the interruption of narrative that must be central to the writing of one's death and addresses the I's dealings with the aporias of such structuring principles as secrecy Levinasian hospitality or interiorization as translation The book makes a strong intervention in the debate over one of the most read genres of our time Dorian Unbound Sean O'Toole, 2023-04-18 A bold reimagining of the literary history of Decadence through a close examination of the transnational contexts of Oscar Wilde's classic novel The Picture of Dorian Gray Building upon a large body of archival and critical work on Oscar Wilde's only novel Dorian Unbound offers a new account of the importance of transnational contexts in the forging of Wilde's imagination and the wider genealogy of literary Decadence Sean O'Toole argues that the attention critics have rightly paid to Wilde's backgrounds in Victorian Aestheticism and French Decadence has had the unintended effect of obscuring a much broader network of transnational contexts Attention to these contexts allows us to reconsider how we read The Picture of Dorian Gray what we believe we know about Wilde and how we understand literary Decadence as both a persistent highly mobile cultural mode and a precursor to global modernism In developing a transnational framework for reading Dorian Gray O'Toole recovers a subterranean network of nineteenth century cultural movements At the same time he joins several active and vital conversations about what it might mean to expand the geographical reach of Victorian studies and to trace the globalization of literature over a longer period of time Dorian Unbound includes chapters on the Irish Gothic German historical romance US magic picture tradition and experimental English epigrams as well as a detailed history and a new close reading of the novel in an effort to understand Wilde's contribution to a more dynamic idea of Decadence than has been previously known From its rigorous account of the broad archive of texts that Wilde read and the array of cultural movements from which he drew inspiration in writing Dorian Gray to the novel's afterlives and global resonances O Toole paints a richer picture of the author and his famously allusive prose This book makes a compelling case for a comparative reading of the novel in a global context It will appeal to historians and admirers of Wilde's career as well as to scholars of nineteenth century literature queer and narrative theory Irish studies and art history
