Mapping Nature across the Americas Kathleen A. Brosnan, James R. Akerman, 2021-10-19 Maps are inherently unnatural Projecting three dimensional realities onto two dimensional surfaces they are abstractions that capture someone s idea of what matters within a particular place they require selections and omissions These very characteristics however give maps their importance for understanding how humans have interacted with the natural world and give historical maps especially the power to provide rich insights into the relationship between humans and nature over time That is just what is achieved in Mapping Nature across the Americas

Illustrated throughout the essays in this book argue for greater analysis of historical maps in the field of environmental history and for greater attention within the field of the history of cartography to the cultural constructions of nature contained within maps This volume thus provides the first in depth and interdisciplinary investigation of the relationship between maps and environmental knowledge in the Americas including for example stories of indigenous cartography in Mexico the allegorical presence of palm trees in maps of Argentina the systemic mapping of US forests and the scientific platting of Canada s remote lands

The Humanity of Cities John Gulick, 1989 I recommend this book highly to social scientists who are looking for a review or refresher course in urbanology advanced undergraduate students and introductory graduate students As our American college student bodies become more culturally diverse The Humanity of Cities provides a welcome respite from the usual culture bound texts that give limited attention for effect only of the stereotypical Third World Contemporary Sociology Gulick s style is to develop each topic by presenting appropriate case studies He manages to include an enormous range of studies and he wisely reaches out beyond anthropology to the many fields that concern themselves with urban life This book is consequently an excellent compilation of the recent history of theoretical and empirical research on an in cities The 28 page bibliography is itself a tour de force American Anthropologist Combining major urban theories with empirical studies from around the world the author offers poignant glimpses into urban life including the streets of San Francisco as seen through the eyes of a proud garbage collector the marketplace of Ibadan as seen by a petty food trader the curiously empty streets of Fun city a California retirement community and Cairo s teeming cemetery the City of the Dead filling with the living The problems of urban life are shown to be more a result of worldwide forces rather than the intrinsic nature of cities This major new and timely contribution to the field is a most useful way to introduce urban scholars planners and students in a variety of disciplines to The Humanity of Cities A complete teachers manual makes this the perfect text
