Telling The News Is Not Enough An Editors Challenge To Journalism:

Mass Media Education in Transition Thomas Dickson, 1999-08 An overview of the changes taking place in media education for educators and administrators in comm depts Vidura ,1995 Gatekeeping in Transition Timothy Vos, François Heinderyckx, 2015-06-08 Much of what journalism scholars thought they knew about gatekeeping about how it is that news turns out the way it does has been called into question by the recent seismic economic and technological shifts in journalism These shifts come with new kinds of gatekeepers new routines of news production new types of news organizations new means for shaping the news and new channels of news distribution Given these changing realities some might ask does gatekeeping still matter In this internationally minded anthology of new gatekeeping research contributors attempt to answer that question Gatekeeping in Transition examines the role of gatekeeping in the twenty first century from organizational institutional and social perspectives across digital and traditional media and argues for its place in contemporary scholarship about news and journalism How Student Journalists Report Campus Unrest Kaylene Dial Armstrong, 2017-11-22 Journalists are trained to tell the stories of others and leave themselves out of their writing Student journalists are no different They spend their days on their college newspaper writing about what happens to others especially when what is happening involves protests sit ins riots hunger strikes and other unrest on the very campuses where they also attend school Now some of these former student reporters and editors tell their own stories of some of the challenges all student journalists face in reporting events that most administrators would rather see not covered at all For some this is the first time the stories of what happened in the newsrooms and behind the scenes will appear in print Some of the issues they discuss include censorship the role of the newspaper as the conscience of the community objective and activist journalism and the challenges of reporting crises The protests covered here represent the many concerns college student protesters have tackled through the decades integration in 1962 the free speech movement of 1964 racial issues and the Vietnam War in 1968 and 1970 and continuing racial issues in the present Many of these former student journalists look back decades to their work in the 1960s Some discuss a more recent protest Looking back they admit they might have done things differently if they had to do it again yet all are fiercely proud of the work they did in recording the first version of history Press Freedom and the (crooked) Path Toward Democracy Meghan Sobel Cohen, Karen McIntyre Hopkinson, 2023 Media scholars generally suggest that as people gain access to mass media content they increasingly support democracy and reject authoritarian rule Much of the scholarship classifying global media systems has overlooked the world's most developing nations and among those that have included developing nations there exists a misguided premise that nations develop in a linear fashion from non democracy to democracy and from a restricted press to a free press This book shows that much of what scholarship depicts about media systems of developing nations is wrong In reality the ebb and flow of political change democratization and backsliding calls for more historically informed views of media systems that do not fit into the confines of existing theories Using the perceptions of journalists in Rwanda Uganda and Kenya to examine mediascapes at varying stages of development and democracy building this book examines the advancement of media and press freedom at varying stages of national development Drawing on qualitative fieldwork and a cross national survey this book provides an updated state of press freedom in these three countries and shows how a nation s political and cultural intricacies complicate traditional media development frameworks and notions of press freedom A detailed set of considerations are put forth for understanding media systems outside the Western world specifically that each country s distance from conflict political benchmarks international linkages and civil society strength are central to understanding its degree of press freedom development and democratization Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1996 Time, Change, and the American Newspaper George Sylvie,Patricia D. Witherspoon,2001-11 This volume combines the study of newspaper management operation with the leadership of change in organizations providing a unique perspective on change in media organizations For scholars students in journalism media management Advances in Communications and Media Research ,2007 journalist reflects on reporting Northern Ireland s Troubles global conflicts and the complex interplay between religion and journalism In this book the award winning Belfast journalist and author reflects on a long career of reporting on the main events in Northern Ireland over the past sixty years and on the aftermath of conflicts in the developing world including Sri Lanka Cambodia Vietnam and Rwanda He covered the worst of the Troubles from the beginning in 1968 69 and reported on some of the most disturbing atrocities such as Bloody Sunday the Kingsmills Massacre and the no warning IRA explosion at the Enniskillen Cenotaph on Remembrance Sunday He has seen religion at its worst and its best and he observes how the Christian faith has sustained so many people in times of great suffering and distress and how the mis practice of this faith has led to division misunderstanding and hostility The author also reflects on his experience of reporting on well known figures in Northern Ireland ranging from Gordon and Joan Wilson whose daughter Marie died in the Enniskillen Cenotaph bomb to the Reverend Ian Paisley He also writes about the courageous and often unheralded bridge builders including the Reverend Dr Ray Davey the World War II veteran and a Presbyterian minister who founded Corrymeela the Christian inter church centre and who was light years ahead of his church and his society in seeing the urgent need for reconciliation The author offers telling insights into well known individuals in a society with no easy answers to challenging problems and asks why the Christian message has been so badly represented by all the main churches He questions the role of journalists over decades when balanced reporting was so important but at times very difficult and suggests that truth has never been more in danger than it is today His journey of faith through the unholy alliance between religion and politics does not make for easy reading but he still retains his personal faith in the best of human nature which can shine through inspiringly even in the worst of times
