What Is a Classic? Ankhi Mukherjee, 2013-11-13 What Is a Classic revisits the famous question posed by critics from Sainte Beuve and T S Eliot to J M Coetzee to ask how classics emanate from postcolonial histories and societies Exploring definitive trends in twentieth and twenty first century English and Anglophone literature Ankhi Mukherjee demonstrates the relevance of the question of the classic for the global politics of identifying and perpetuating so called core texts Emergent canons are scrutinized in the context of the wider cultural phenomena of book prizes the translation and distribution of world literatures and multimedia adaptations of world classics Throughout Mukherjee attunes traditional literary critical concerns to the value contestations mobilizing postcolonial and world literature The breadth of debates and topics she addresses as well as the book's ambitious historical schema which includes South Asia Africa the Middle East the West Indies Australia New Zealand Europe and North America set this study apart from related titles on the bookshelf today

The Frame and the Mirror Thomas P. Brockelman, 2001 If the postmodern is a collage as some critics have suggested or if collage is itself a kernel of the postmodern what does this mean for our way of understanding the world The Frame and the Mirror uses this question to probe the distinctive character of the postmodern situation and the philosophical problem of representation Brockelman's work is itself a collage of sorts using juxtapositions of critics and art historical figures to conduct a debate between such figures as Karsten Harries Gianni Vattimo Rosalind Krauss Immanuel Kant Jean Francois Lyotard Slavoj Žižek and Le Corbusier about issues such as truth in art perspectivism theatricality the sublime psychoanalytic theory politics and urbanism More than an introduction to the postmodern The Frame and the Mirror advances our understanding of the contemporary world by relating its features to the peculiar characteristics of collage Ultimately Brockelman shows how collage demands that we reinterpret modernity conceiving of it as suspended between a loss of certainty and a new kind of knowledge about the human condition In doing so his work challenges many of the claims made in the name of postmodernism and offers in their place a new and ironic view of the cultural space in which contemporary and historical events occur set is to bring together in a convenient format information about the world's more significant theater companies. Articles are grouped by continent or region and are arranged alphabetically by country within these area groups. The People's Republic of China is not covered. Area editors and contributors identified in volume 2 were selected for their specialized knowledge of theater in the area about which they write. Articles include information concerning a company's history, philosophy, performing style, location, facilities, and future plans. For some areas, e.g., India and Japan, rather extensive background on theatrical traditions is also provided. For information in English about outstanding theater companies in most countries, this is likely to be a standard. Theodore O. Wohlsen Jr. Connecticut State Lib.

Theatre Companies of the World Colby H. Kullman, William C. Young, 1986 The purpose of this
