Successful Site Based Management A Practical Guide:

Resources in Education, 2001 Effective School District Management Fred Dembowski, 1999 This publication provides administrators with an instrument that management teams from districts can use for objective self assessment Readers will learn the distinctions between the leader and management roles and how to recognize and evaluate the management related tasks of school leadership The New School Leader for the 21st Century Edward H. Seifert, James A. Vornberg, 2002-10-16 Veteran educators Seifert and Vornberg utilize the six standards created by the Interstate School Leaders Consortium ISLLIC and used in developing and redesigning preparation programs and state certification examinations to discuss those issues faced by practicing elementary and secondary school principals Each chapter begins with a short case study emanating from a fictitious school district and culminates with student activities that address the concepts discussed in the chapter Questions and activities follow and provide the reader with an opportunity to apply the concepts discussed This design makes it an ideal text for use with principal certification programs offered by higher education units and other alternative certification programs The practice of the principalship is viewed by the authors as a systematic process that addresses the operation of a school as a set of interrelated parts and skills that work together to create a self correcting model of student learning teaching and stakeholder participation An instructor s manual is available as a separate publication World heritage marine sites Douvere, Fanny, 2015-11-02 The Professoriate: Challenges and Promises Paul V. Bredson, Jay Paredes Scribner, 1998-04-28 The 1995 NCPEA Yearbook is organized into five major sections The first The Landscapes of Change Challenges for Professors of Educational Administration contains four chapters that frame the major themes and issues of the 1994 conference In Section 2 Educational Leadership and Development Program Theoretical Perspectives the authors explore theoretical lenses for examining the preparation of educational leaders and the development of educational administration programs Section 3 Responding to New Realities Program Development in Educational Administration contains detailed descriptions of emerging educational realities that have begun to trigger program changes and innovations in departments of educational leadership at six institutions Rethinking and Revisioning Teaching and Learning to prepared Educational Leaders Section 4 offers five excellent vignettes of changes and challenges for professors in creating new teaching and learning environments for themselves and their students In the final section Policies Programs and Practices Investigations in Educational Administration six chapters relate the finds of researchers using very different research designs and methods The implications for professors of educational administration and for all educational stakeholders are discussed Effective Operations and Performance Management Bloomsbury Publishing, 2010-10-01 Effective Operations and Performance Management is a multi author volume written by practitioners and academics in their respective fields of expertise including Andrew Mayo Subir Chowdhur Andrew Cox and Leslie L Kossoff providing coverage in all aspects of operations and performance within a company The book addresses measuring

A Practical Guide to Successful Pigeon Culture Richard Woods (pigeon-fancier.), 1891

Best Practice Guidelines for Great Ape Tourism Elizabeth J. Macfie, Elizabeth A. Williamson, 2010 Executive summary Tourism is often proposed 1 as a strategy to fund conservation efforts to protect great apes and their habitats 2 as a way for local communities to participate in and benefit from conservation activities on behalf of great apes or 3 as a business A few very successful sites point to the considerable potential of conservation based great ape tourism but it will not be possible to replicate this success everywhere The number of significant risks to great apes that can arise from tourism require a cautious approach If great ape tourism is not based on sound conservation principles right from the start the odds are that economic objectives will take precedence the consequences of which in all likelihood would be damaging to the well being and eventual survival of the apes and detrimental to the continued preservation of their habitat All great ape species and subspecies are classified as Endangered or Critically Endangered on the IUCN Red List of Threatened Species IUCN 2010 therefore it is imperative that great ape tourism adhere to the best practice guidelines in this document The guiding principles of best practice in great ape tourism are Tourism is not a panacea for great ape conservation or revenue generation Tourism can enhance long term support for the conservation of great apes and their habitat Conservation comes first it must be the primary goal at any great ape site and tourism can be a tool to help fund it Great ape tourism should only be developed if the anticipated conservation benefits as identified in impact studies significantly outweigh the risks Enhanced conservation investment and action at great ape tourism sites must be sustained in perpetuity Great ape tourism management must be based on sound and objective science Benefits and profit for communities adjacent to great ape habitat should be maximised Profit to private sector partners and others who earn income associated with tourism is also important but should not be the driving force for great ape tourism development or expansion Comprehensive understanding of potential impacts must guide tourism development positive impacts from tourism must be maximised and negative impacts must be avoided or if inevitable better understood and mitigated The ultimate success or failure of great ape tourism can lie in variables that may not be obvious to policymakers who base their decisions primarily on earning revenue for struggling conservation programmes However a number of biological geographical economic and global factors can affect a site so as to render ape tourism ill advised or unsustainable This can be due for example to the failure of the tourism market for a particular site to provide revenue sufficient to cover the development and operating costs or it can result from failure to protect the target great apes from the large number of significant negative aspects inherent in tourism Either of these failures will have serious consequences for the great ape population Once apes are habituated to human observers they are at increased risk from poaching and other forms of conflict with humans They must be protected in perpetuity even if tourism fails or ceases for any reason Great ape tourism should not be developed without conducting critical feasibility analyses to ensure there is sufficient potential for success Strict attention must be paid to the design of the enterprise its implementation and continual management capacity in a manner that avoids or at least minimises the negative impacts of tourism on local communities and on the apes themselves Monitoring programmes to track costs and impacts as well as benefits is essential to inform management on how to optimise tourism for conservation benefits These guidelines have been developed for both existing and potential great ape tourism sites that wish to improve the degree to which their programme contributes to the conservation rather than the exploitation of great apes
